

COLLEGE ORBIT.

Chapters of the Woman's Suffrage League will soon be established at at Northwestern and Chicago universities.

The American Rhodes Scholars are making a strong effort to introduce baseball into college athletics at Oxford University.

Students of the University of Wisconsin have been burning professors in effigy, because of the recent abolition of football.

Northwestern athletics will hereafter be primarily in charge of a faculty member. All expenses are to be met by gate receipts, thereby forcing the students to pay for their own athletics.

At Minnesota the board of control has established a special hat band to be worn by the 'varsity men. Only "M" men are privilege the special design adopted. This is a Princeton custom.

Tennis is making a strong effort to become an inter-collegiate sport. A large number of colleges have taken up the game as such and it appears as if it will be still more popular next year.

The students of Cornell University threatened to revolt because permission had been given to a trolley company to lay its tracks on a street which is on the campus. The professors claim that the rumbling of the cars on the present route disturbs some delicate instruments in the new Physics building, but the students refuse to allow the campus to be violated on the ground that other routes are to be had.

Tennis Tournament.

Owing to an oversight the results of the Tennis Tournament, were not announced in last week's issue. Don and Kenneth Stevenson, '06 and '09, respectively, won the finals from Crocker '06 and Patterson '07, thereby winning the Stevenson trophy this year.

Inter-Class Relay.

The Junior relay team walked away with the inter-class relay race which was held on the afternoon of Decoration Day. In the first quarter Montz gave the lead to Long who in turn passed it on to Stapler, while Henry furnished the last quarter winning by twenty yards. The time was 3.35.
