

Cadets at Bellefonte.

The entire cadet battalion, which, with the band numbered 310 men, took part in the exercises at Bellefonte on last Friday. The occasion was the unveiling of the statue of Andrew G. Curtin, Pennsylvania's War Governor, and of a monument to the soldiers and sailors of Centre County. The battalion left the College shortly after ten o'clock, and arrived at Bellefonte in time for the parade, which formed in line about half past eleven. The participants in the parade, which covered the principal streets, were the chief Marshall, Gen. John I. Curtin, and staff, Col. Elder and staff, parts of the Fifth and Twelfth Regiments, Governor Pennypacker and staff, Generals Gobin and Wiley with their staffs, the State College battalion, Sheridan Troop of Tyrone, the G. A. R., the Fire Department, and other organizations. The State boys, in blue coats and white trousers, added not a little to the parade, and received applause all along the line of march. In the afternoon occurred the unveiling of the statue and the monument. Short addresses were delivered by Gov. Pennypacker, Gen. Beaver, and others. The return trip was uneventful, the train reaching the College before six o'clock.

The excellent showing made by the battalion greatly increases the chances of going to Harrisburg next October to participate in the dedication of the new Capitol.

Y.M.C.A. Meeting.

On Sunday evening at 6.30 the college Young Men's Christian Association held an open air meeting on front campus.

There was a large attendance both of college men and visitors. Dr. Patterson who delivered the Baccalau reate sermon in the morning addressed the meeting and in a short straightforward talk made plain a man's usefulness in the world. Many songs were introduced into the service and the meeting was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The Thespians.

The commencement production by The Thespians in the three-act farce comedy entitled "Facing the Music" was presented in the Auditorium last evening. The performance, which was well rendered, fully sustained the good reputation which The Thespians has won as a college dramatic organization. All of the characters were well brought out and this fact together with the peculiar action of the play made the audience an appreciative one. The amusing complications between the Rev. and Mrs. John Smith and Mr. and Mrs. John Smith were the richest parts of the play. The plot which is worked out in two hours was full of comical situations and the large audience thoroughly enjoyed it. The college orchestra rendered some very good selections from popular comic operas of the day.

THE CAST

The Rev. John Smith ... J. C. Rhoads, '06
John Smith ..... P. P. Partridge, '07
Dick Desmond .... E. L. Diehl, '06
Col. Duncan Smith... G. McGee, '06
Sergeant Duffel ..... E. C. Dunkle, '07
Mabel .. ..... C. H. Cordie, '06
Nora ..... J. S. Romig, '07
Miss Fotheringay.... A. M. Clay, '06
Mrs. Ponting ..... W. A. Newton, '07

Commencement Addresses.

The following are the speakers from 1906 who will deliver the student addresses, C. D. Flickinger, the Modern Engineer; A. L. Ferver, The Awakening of China; C. F. Noll, The Future of Russia; H. H. Hollinger, The Closing of The Temple Doors; O. C. Hays; The Awakening of The Civic Conscience, with Valdectory.

Dr. Frank P. Graves Ph D. L.L.D. delivers the regular Commencement address.

COLLEGE NOTES.

The Freshmen—or rather Sophomores—placed a large star on top of the flag-pole last Saturday night. During the night, however, it fell. The next night a well-balanced arrow was substituted.

Philochorean Dance.

The fifty couples who enjoyed the Philochorean dance held in McAllister Hall Monday night unite in declaring it a complete success. The music, which was excellent, was furnished by the Comstock Orchestra of Sunbury, Pa. The program consisted of twenty-four dances and four extras, besides numerous encores. The refreshments were served by Mr. Housel, the caterer for McAllister Hall. The small white programs were neat and attractive. The men who had charge of the affair were Adams, Dumm and Lorah, of '06, with Root and Smith of '07.

While the Philochorean dance was being held in McAllister Hall, the fraternities and clubs were holding dances in their houses. The music was furnished by out-of-town talent, and as usual the dances proved to very enjoyable.

Notice.

The dividend of the Co-operative Association for the year just ended will be ten per cent of the purchases of all members, payable on or before the opening of the next college year.

All outstanding accounts due the Association must be paid before the distribution of the dividend. All students who refuse to settle their accounts before that date will be discharged of their obligation, the amount of their indebtedness deducted from the dividend fund and the balance of the fund distributed among the members.

At the time of the distribution of the dividend a printed report will be sent to all students of the college, giving a full report of the years business, the dividend actually paid and the names of all students who have refused to meet their obligations to the association.

Signed { T. F. FOLTZ, '06, Pres.
E. W. NICK, '07,
B. D. KUNKLE, '07,
R. W. KRISE, '08.