EDITORIAL.

During the first part of next week, the Federation of Pennsylvania Women will hold its annual meeting at State College. We now have another excellent opportunity to assist General Beaver in his efforts to place State before the attention of Pennsylvanians as a college that has men within its walls, men worthy to be called Pennsylvanians. These delegates will come from every part of the State and represent the women who are sending their sons to college. We want a good share of these sons, and the way to get them is to make evident the fact that State is an institution for men, who are going to succeed in their respective professions. The battalion at Harrisburg last Thursday was a credit to the College; let every student now show that he is a State man.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

The Tuesday evening meetings will be held at 6.30 p.m. hereafter, instead of at 6.15. The Sunday meetings will continue to be held at 6.15 until further notice. The Entertainment Course.

The Y.M.C.A. entertainment course for the coming year has been completed as follows:

Saturday, Nov. 3, The Temple Quartet.

Friday, Nov. 30, The Dunbar Company.

Friday, Dec. 14, Dr. MacDowell. Saturday, Jan. 12, Alton Packard.

Saturday. Feb. 23, Leland Powers.

The Temple Quartet is a Boston organization that has been on the platform for a large number of years, and has won an enviable reputation for itself. It is said to be better than the Lotus Glee Club, which gave such an excellent concert last fall. A lover of good music will hardly want to miss this number.

The Dunbars form one of the leading entertainment companies in the country. They are bell-ringers, a male-quartet, a string quartet and carry a very fine violoncellist. They have appeared very frequently in the East, filling 192 engagements during the last season. They are very enthusiastically recommended by a large number of Pennsylvania cities, including Philadelphia, Williamsport, Pittsburg, Reading, Johnstown and many others.

Dr. E. B. MacDowell gives an illustrated lecture on the Panama Canal, his illustrations comprising over five hundred slides and fifteen moving pictures. His lecture is in no way technical, and gives in a very interesting form a large amount of valuable information of which many are ignorant. Engineers please take notice !

Just ask an upper classman about Alton Packard. He is better than ever, more entertaining, versatile. and original. Everything on his program is new. He alone is worth the price of the course ticket. Recommended from Portland. Maine, to Portland, Oregon.

"I would walk ten miles to hear Leland Powers," said a member of the Faculty. When you have heard him you'll make it thirty miles. Mr. Powers is the finest reader and impersonator on the platform to-day, and the committee deems itself fortunate in being able to book him, so crowded is his list of engagements. We have recommendations from ten different colleges. His program has not yet been selected from his list of fourteen, but whatever it is, it will be one of the greatest treats ever offered to a State College audience.

No "fakes" on this course. All the companies are known and will stand strictly on their merits. Prices for course tickets; $1.50; for reserved seat course tickets; $1 75. Reserved seat tickets only will be sold at the Co-op. Other tickets obtainable from the canvassers or at Room 273, Main.

The admission to each single entertainment will be thirty-five cents, reserved seat, fifteen cents extra.

The Mechanical Engineering Society at Nittany Inn.

The first banquet of the Mechanical Engineering Society, held after the wrestling match one week ago last Friday evening, aroused a lively interest. It brought together former members and laid before the new men plans for the meetings to be held this year. With P P. Partridge as toastmaster, wit and wisdom flowed freely. The speakers were Mr. Howard, President of the Society, Mr. Gerhard, speaking for the Juniors, Messrs. Wentzell, Leitzell, Rittenhouse and Lindemuth. Each had something to say worth hearing and said it in a vein of good humor, which left a fraternal feeling among the members of the society. The plans for weekly meetings, as outlined, are intended to bring out more discussion on timely engineering subjects than could be accomplished under the former arrangement.
