

The Week With Our Opponents.

Yale was not able to do as well as was expected with Holy Cross last Saturday, the score amounting to only 17 to 0. The Yale backfield frequently fumbled and was rarely able to advance the ball very much. The Holy Cross men forced their opponents to kick a great deal.

The Navy played a plucky game against Princeton, allowing the latter to cross the line but once. Several scores were prevented, however, by the Middies breaking up a trick formation, and again by holding the Princeton line. The Annapolis men have been playing good foot ball this year, and from the healthy manner in which they have been going after their opponents it seems that they will give State a hard struggle on Nov 3.

A great deal of interest centers in the game with W. U. P. on Thanksgiving day. Each team has won one game of the two that have been played in Pittsburg so far. The Pittsburg men have been showing up very well, and running up large scores by making no changes in the line-up, even during the less important games. A change in the coaching system, the disqualification of some of the strongest men, and the perfect harmony that has been obtained have done much to make the team somewhat different from what it was when State won the victory last year.
