

Convention of Club Women

tion will be taken next year. Mrs. S. T. Rorer, famed for her knowledge of cooking, talked in an interesting way on Domestic Science. In the evening, J. Horace McFarland talked on School Gardens, and Prof. Surface gave an illustrated lecture on insects.

The most interesting features of Thursday's program were talks by Mrs. Blankenburg of Philadelphia and Miss Reese of Pittsburg on "The Smoke Nuisance" and an interesting paper by Miss Blakiston of Philadelphia, telling of the part taken by women in the recent reform movement in that city. At the evening session, the advantages of State, particularly for women, were described by Mrs. J. P. Jackson, Miss Meek, and Miss Redifer. General Beaver talked on "Ways and Means," and the meeting was brought to a fitting close with a splendid concert by the Glee Club and Orchestra.

Some doubt was expressed in the beginning whether so large a number of women could be successfully entertained at the College, but the project has been carried through with apparent success. Much credit is due the members of the local woman's club for their untiring efforts, and to the fraternities which opened their houses for the entertainment of the visitors.

An intense effort was made to show the opportunities offered by the college, not only to men but also to the women of the State. The "co-ed" portion of the college body has been small for some time, but the Trustees have been working lately to encourage the matriculation of women. Whether the recent convention will have been responsible for any increase in the number of State's co-eds will not become apparent until next year. In any case, there can be no doubt but that the male enrollment will show the effects of the labors of the women of the College to make the recent convention a success.
