The Yale Game.

Once again has "Old State" played Yale to a stand-still and yet lost out finally. But last Saturday's game was the best contest ever seen between the two bull dogs, and it was simply a matter of hard luck that kept the score from being at least a tie. All honor to every man on our 'Varsity squad! The story of the game, as impartially told in the Sunday "North American," and "Press," is as follows:

FROM PHILA. NORTH AMERICAN

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 20. "Penn State gave Yale the hardest and best game of the season, holding the Elis to one touchdown, which was followed by a kicked goal, and a goal from field. Score: Yale 10—State 0.

"Three times Penn State tried to score by field goals and once missed only by the ball striking one of the goal posts and bounding outside. Penn State's quarter back, Henry, and Yale's right guard, Erwin, had a run-in, and both men were ordered off the field by the umpire."

"Although it rained hard during the second half, both elevens played high class foot ball, making frequent use of the double and forward passes. In this department Yale had a shade the better of the comparison.

"Yale's touchdown came from failure to catch the slippery ball. About the middle of the first half Knox punted and the ball bounded along, Bigelow snapping it up and scoring a touch down. Knox scored Yale's other points by a quick kick of a placement goal from the 25 yard line.

"An accurate pass by Gillis and Dine's excellent placing of the ball assisted Knox materially.

"The second half was full of Penn State's hard luck. But the way State's big backs opened-up Yale's rush line for material gains was sufficient to make Yale men admit that the visitors deserved to score. The entire contest was played in the rain and on a soggy field, and it was a game of forward passes and punting. Yale was out-punted and outpassed, but her team work and proverbial luck saved the day."

The Week in Football.

Annapolis last Saturday defeated Lehigh by the small score of 12-0; one touchdown and a goal in each half. The game was hotly contested from start to finish and in both halves the Navy worked the forward pass very successfully. The game was played on a wet field, but notwithstanding this handicap to quick work, several good runs were made. Norton played a star game at quarter-back for the Navy.

Ursinus proved a strong proposition for Dickinson and the Carlisle aggregation was lucky to come out victorious by the score of 4 to 0. Quarter-back kicks and fumbling largely made up the play in the first half, as well as the second. The only score occurred in the first half, when Captain Davis of Dickinson kicked a goal from placement on the 35 yard line. Dickinson's work on the offensive was poor and no ground could be gained from line bucking.

The greatest surprise of the week however, was the walk-over given to the Western U. of P. by the Carlisle Indians. The Indians outplayed the Western team at every stage and in almost every department of the game, and succeeded in running up the decisive score of 22 to 0; three touchdowns and three kicked goals in the first half and one field goal in the second.

An estimate of the strength of foot ball teams by comparative scores is usually useless as foot ball is so uncertain, but in this game the Indians'score was a big one, affording State most favorable prospects for a victory over W. U. P. However, as our Pittsburg rivals always put up a strong game on Thanksgiving, there is great probability that this year's contest will be a hard one and worth witnessing.

Bucknell succeeded in scoring on Princeton by means of a kick from placement. The Princeton men claim that Bucknell did not signal for a fair catch, but the officials declare that they saw the signal plainly. Although the Tiger won easily by the score of 32 to 4, there is much regret on account of Bucknell's success in placing the ball between the goal posts. The Lewisburg team has now met both Princeton and Cornell, and claims that the former is superior to the latter.

The Berzelius Society.

At the meeting of the Berzelius Society last Friday, final arrangements were made for the reception of Dr. John Marshall of the University of Pennsylvania, who comes here to talk to the Society next Friday night on Rattlesnake Poison. All Senior, Junior and Sophomore Chemists are invited to this lecture, which is to be given in the large lecture room at the Laboratory. After the talk a smoker will be given by the Society for Dr. Marshall.

COLLEGE ORBIT.

A State law makes chapel attendance at West Virginia University entirely voluntary. Those who attend, however, and take notes at the lectures given at these exercises receive credit for one-third of a course each quarter.
