Prof. Jackson's Memory Fails.

During their stay in Schenectady the senior electricals were the guests of the Penn State club of that city. On the evening of March 21st the twenty-three alumni gave a smoker for the visitors and the walls fairly vibrated with the songs and yells. The one sad feature of the evening, however, was that "Price" forgot his class yell. The old boys recalled many experiences and seemed to be very proud of the record State has made in all branches of athletics.

Every class since 1900 was represented and steps were taken towards the formation of a permanent local alumni association. At the General Electric works the entire switchboard department with D. H. Plank '00 at the head is in the hands of State men. Noble '04 has charge of the railway motor testing department the most important test in the works.

Men's New Spring Suits

Particular dressers can be garbed in Garments Ready-to-Wear

"Isn't $25 rather steep for a ready to wear suit? a man inquired the other day. Said he could get a suit made to order for that. So he can. But—to get a suit the equal in every way of one here at $25 he'd have to pay at least $40. Catch the point? Better yet, our suits at $18 to $28 are also equal to finest custom made, and all are less in prices than equally as good suits made to order.

"The man who designs our $25 suits draws a salary of something over $20,000 a year. Influence? No. One of the firm? Not at all. He gets it because he's a genius at designing men's garments that are the quintessence of style and that are the acme of fit.

"Another big advantage in fine ready-to-wear clothes is that a man may judge of several suits, instead of having to select from the piece goods and picture in his mind's eye how the suit will look when completed; almost as though he were choosing between a finished painting on the one hand, and oils and canvas on the other. Choice of the ready-to-wear is not only wider but simplified. And we are unbiased, for we do custom tailoring, also—and do it well.

We never had so fine an Easter showing

"More men depend on Sims each year for their garments—men who know dress and its fine points. The man who wants to keep right up to the latest style, and the more conservative dresser who wants the latest; but not the extremes in clothes—the whole gamut of style is met in the assortments here. We satisfy every good taste in dress, and the growing clientele and business attest the success of the Sim ready-to-wear clothes.

Have You Seen

The READYFILL FOUNTAIN PEN

"The pen that fills itself."

No more ink spotted fingers. The "Readyfill" writes when you are ready. No need to shake it to start the flow of ink. A patented split feed makes dripping impossible. Every college man should have a reliable fountain pen.
