

Some men are just prejudiced

THEY don't know what the ready-made clothiers are accomplishing. They simply have followed that old time belief that a custom tailor does things differently.

It will just take about two seconds for a try-on of a Sim suit to prove that a custom tailor is an expensive luxury. There can be no better tailoring than is put into these clothes; the style couldn't be improved, the fit is all that any exacting dresser could demand, clothes and patterns are exclusive, and the prices are about half.

J. G. J. Stoll, representative

To the Students of State College and the Faculty.

We take this means of extending our many and appreciated thanks for the large patronage they have seen fit to give us the past year.

To those who are to return we wish to state we are preparing for their future wants and trust to merit their continued patronage.

So those whose term at State College is at an end we wish success.

Many former State men find they derive more satisfaction in ordering by mail from the Sim store than they get in personal selections at other stores. We wish to announce that we give our best attention to such mail orders. No matter where you are you can still consider this your store—A young man's store—by mail we can still serve you.
