secondly, it marks the beginning of class effort in behalf of the Library. In other colleges class funds for special departments are prominent sources of a Library's strength. Small but increasing endowments wisely expended build, in years, most valuable collections. We may confidently expect that the Class of 1907 will follow up their well begun work and that older classes will imitate the example in the endeavor to give "State" men the widest and best opportunities for literary and scientific work. Our ideal is that the Library shall serve all "State" men, graduates as well as undergraduates, and the Class of 1907 is to be congratulated for having taken the initial step in enlarging this service and in strengthening our hands."

PROF. RAY'S REPORT.

"The library equipment for the work of this Department (History and Political Science) is perhaps not excelled, if equaled, by any other Department of the College. This equipment, already excellent, is to be re-enforced through the generosity of the Class of 1907 in presenting to the College the late President Atherton's private library of Political Science as a nucleus for a President Atherton Seminary of Political Science. Such a manifestation of the finest type of college spirit deserves, as it will receive, the admiration and grateful thanks of all friends of the College and of this Department in particular."

The Interclass Meet.

The annual interclass track and field meet was held on Beaver field, Thursday May 30. The Juniors were victors with 45 points, Seniors second with 40 points, Sophomores third with 19 points, and Freshmen fourth with 13 points. The track was fine and the weather excellent, but only a small crowd turned out. The half mile run and
