The government inspection of the military department which occurred May 31 had several novel features. One of these was a special ceremony for receiving two new flags. One of these was the college standard, presented by the senior class, and the other the national colors, purchased by the college. The entire morning was cevoted to the usual drills and inspection, but in the afternoon the battalion was divided, four companies under Captain Wilson being assigned to attack a position occupied by two companies under Captain Groff.

The inspector, Captain Penn, was well pleased with the work of the battalion and the band. The latter received special mention in his report.
