

sistant managers of each department. The Advisory committee selects the managers from the three assistants. The manager must be a senior at the time of his service.

This plan was unanimously endorsed. The present constitution was declared null and void, the present officers to act ad interim, and a committee of five students was appointed to confer with the Alumni committee in drafting a new constitution, which will be ready for adoption after the Christmas vacation. George R. Meek, '99, will act as graduate manager under the new system.

Our Coaches.

"Tommy" Fennell first came to State as a football coach in September, '04. At that time, State had not yet enjoyed the privilege of employing the services of an experienced coach and Fennell's effective work on the field rapidly became evident. Not only was his ability as a football coach admired by all those who daily came in contact with him, but his noble character and strong personality also attracted every State man. His influence became powerful throughout the entire college community and his words, as delivered in frequent speeches to the student body, conveyed whole-souled meanings. Many a game has been won by the spirit which "Tommy's" words aroused.

During the seasons of 1905-6, "Tommy" devoted as much time as his legal practice allowed to the coaching of State's teams. At the opening of the 1907 season, he was back again and soon had the squad hard at work. Unfortunately, as in previous years, he could only be with us as long as his valuable time afforded, but nevertheless, we have had a successful team this year under his coaching and to him every State man owes the highest appreciation.
