

still retained its freshness and no trouble was experienced in putting the Southerners far behind early in the game. Here again the excellent team work of the White and Blue was shown, as well as the individual playing of the men in particular.

The hardest game of the trip was played on Friday night when the team went up against the strong Penn five with its record of fifteen consecutive victories. The representatives of Penn State had become somewhat tired out by traveling and the wear of the preceding games so that they were not in condition to play the best game. As it was, however, they were recognized as one of the strongest teams Penn has played this year. State started off with a lead but was soon tied by Penn, only to take the lead again. This was kept up throughout the game and not until five minutes before the end of the game did Penn score enough to be sure of the result. The main feature of the game was the clever passing and dribbling of our men. "Billy" Dunn and Heaton, both old State stars, said that they did not see how State could lose another game if the style of play shown against Penn is maintained.

The Swarthmore game which followed found the team in better shape and, although very much handicapped by the size of the floor, they found it a comparatively easy matter to win. The Quakers were simply played to a standstill throughout the game.

The individual stars of the series are hard to pick owing to the magnificent playing of all. The way the team has developed in the last few weeks has been wonderful. Great credit is due Prof. Tomhave who has willingly given much of his time towards improving the work of the team. He played on the Minnesota five when they won from such teams as Chicago and his knowledge of the game is very complete.

A Decisive Victory.

The George Washington five put up a poor exhibition of basketball against Penn State on the Armory floor Tuesday night. The visitors played a plucky game but seemed to have been more or less fatigued from previous contests and were unable to do any shooting. The game resulted in the decisive score of 47 to 4 against them. Penn showed excellent form and the floor work and shooting were always above par.

The Easter vacation will this year be from April 16th to 23rd. Half-semester subjects will change at the end of March.
