and tennis courts will be a main feature; and fishing will be superb, for a mountain stream of good size which flows through the grounds will be stocked with trout. The hotel which has been neglected somewhat will be improved and twenty-eight rooms fixed up for summer boarders. To please the inner man, a chef from Baltimore has been engaged whose experience enables him to serve an appetizing meal on short notice, a fact which one can appreciate after a long drive.

Instead of the one boat in the cave at present, several gasoline launches are to be used and equipped with headlights; and instead of the torches, electric lights are to be strung around the walls of the cavern.

The proposed improvements will serve to make more attractive a scene which already possesses great natural beauty. Every student should by all means make at least one visit to the cave during his college course.

The Co-ed Play.

The humdrum existence of college life is soon to be enlivened by a play given by our talented co-eds. The play is entitled Breezy Point and is a roaring farce comedy in three acts. The plot is an exceedingly intricate one and furnishes plenty of material for a number of local raps, several of which will be worked in during the plot. Strenuous efforts are being made to present the play Friday evening, March 27, and for the accomplishment of this end the girls are practicing every day. A similar play given last year met with such success that the progress of this year's production is watched with great interest.

New Work in Forestry.

Mr. Edwin A. Ziegler, assistant forest inspector in charge of forest computation, will come to the college on April 1 to assist in the work of the department. Mr. Ziegler has been connected with the government forestry department for several years, and has done work in Michigan, Minnesota, New Mexico, California, Nebraska, and other western states. While he is here he will devote six weeks' time to lectures on forest mensuration and related subjects, after which he will aid in the summer school work of two weeks in the woods.

Inter-Fraternity Basketball.

The scores of the basketball games played between the freshman teams representing the various fraternities stand as follows:

K Σ	5	Σ X	14
