THE TOGGERY SHOP

parade ground. Both sides fought valiantly for the full hour and not a man broke out of ranks to go home for his umbrella when the rain came on. The result was never in doubt although the Sophomores at one time came almost as near getting the flag as Alexander came to getting the roast of beef in the Ham Tree act.

Fire Drill Soon.

A welcome bit of news to every student in college is the fact that in McAllister hall and in Main building an organization is to be effected immediately to supervise the fighting of any fire which may occur in the buildings.

This matter has been in charge of Capt. Hay, who expects to have a drill on Saturday of this week. Each floor of the Main building is to have two squads of three men each to handle the hose--two men at the nozzle and one at the valve.

There will also be a squad on each floor to act as guards when the alarm is given, and all will be under the supervision of the chief marshal of the building. Three marshals on each floor are to have direct charge of their floor and are to select the men to act on the squad. A similar organization is to be formed in McAllister hall.

It is certain that this plan of placing authority in definite squads will prevent any such lack of discipline as was shown at the recent fire in the Chemistry building, and to perfect such a system, drill is necessary. Saturday seems to be the best time, and until the men get acquainted with their places, these drills will occur once in every week or two, and then once a month.

The village department has suggested the co-operation of the students with them under a town marshal as chief, the same organization in the buildings to fight any outside fire, and is possible that such an agreement may be made.

"The Making of a Book."

On Monday evening, May 11, in the Auditorium, a popular lecture entitled "The Making of a Book" will be delivered by Warren E. Gregory, manager and treasurer of the Boston publishing house of the Lee, Lathrop and Shepard company. Mr. Gregory has had wide experience as educator, editor, author, and publisher, and is well qualified to speak on this interesting subject. He will show the materials used in the various stages of the growth of a book.

Professor Willard has received a letter from "Tommv" Srednik, ex '10, who left college several weeks ago and returned to Russia. He writes that he is now in St. Petersburg and is trying to get into the University of St. Petersburg.
