The Immigrant.

A subject in which every college man should be deeply interested is that of our relations to immigrants, nearly a million of whom find homes in our country every year. On Friday evening Dr. Edward A. Steiner, who has made a careful study of the whole question, will lecture on the topic, "On the Trail of the Immigrant." The talk will be practical, since it comes direct from one whose life work has been mainly a study at first hand of the character, aspirations, racial characteristics, and capabilities of the immigrant himself. Dr. Steiner makes no attempt to theorize concerning the facts which he has gathered, but states them in a clear forceful way which holds the attention of his hearers to the end. The whole lecture will be a discussion of the right method of assimilating and befriending the foreigner rather than of the immigrant policy in general.

The lecture is given under the auspices of the Christian Association, and an admission of twenty-five cents will be charged.

Inspection of the Regiment.

The annual inspection of the regiment, which will probably occur on next Monday, will this year be in charge of Captain George H. Shelton, of the General Staff, U. S. A. The work of the forenoon will include a regimental review, regimental inspection, and drill by individual companies, by the battalions, and regimental drill. In the afternoon it is likely that there will be a regimental parade, followed possibly by guard mounting and a field exercise similar to that of last year.

The condition of the weather has hindered the work to some extent, and it has been impossible to devote time to certain parts of the work which would otherwise have been completed. Captain Hay has obtained permission to use all of Saturday forenoon in drill, and there will be no classes for the men who are required to drill. It is hoped that a creditable showing may be made this year, and that our regiment may compare favorably with the other cadet organizations which Captain Shelton will review on his trip.

The Library has received a copy of Prof. Van Norman's "First Lessons in Dairying."

There will be a meeting of the Senior class this evening at 7 o'clock in Room 20 of the Engineering Building.
