and was made especially to fit the Auditorium stage. It consists of two complete sets: a drawing room set and a library set. There are also grand drapery and tormentors to match, a complete set of flies, and a drop curtain. The grand draperies and tormentors are finished in rich maroon, gold and black with "Thespians" on the drapery and with the Thespian mask on each of the tormentors. On the drop curtain is painted a garden scene with a vista of a river flanked by hills. The completely arranged frame makes the necessary changes in scenery much less troublesome than it has been in the past, and the drop curtain will remove the trouble usually experienced with the Auditorium curtain. The Thespians now feel that with these new settings they can put on a production that will compare favorably with those of the larger universities.
