

Beaver Field.

It is with pained surprise that our Alumni noted in a recent issue of The Collegian that no decision has as yet been reached as to whether or not State's splendid new athletic field is to be called Beaver Field. Throughout all the history of our College, two magnificent men stand pre-eminent as leading spirits and guides for the scores of stout hearts that have wrought for the welfare of Old State, Dr. Atherton and General Beaver!

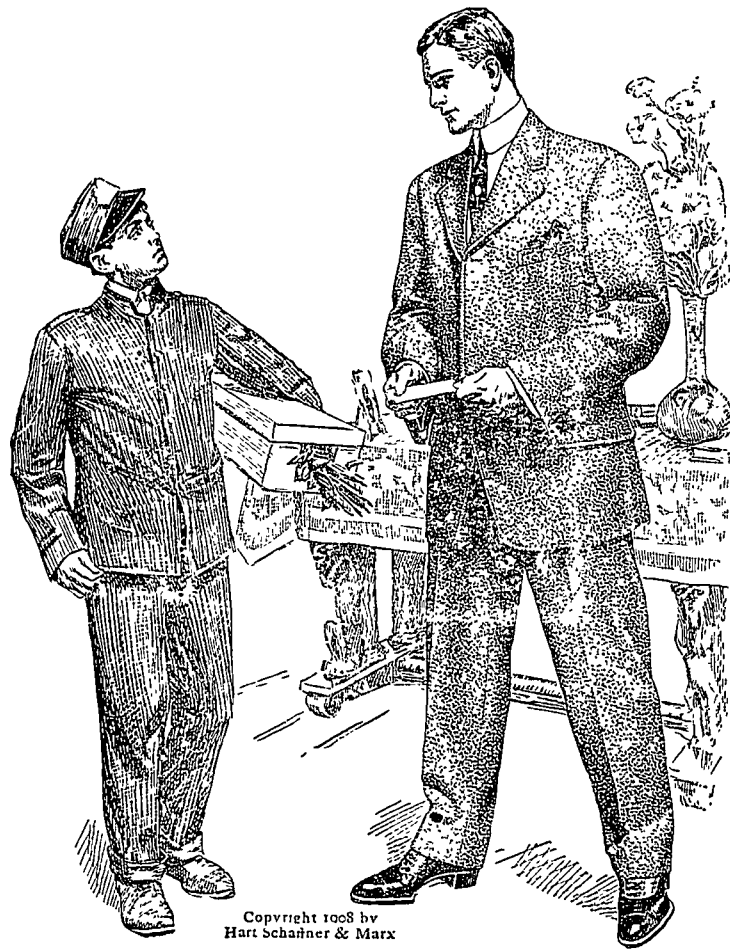

For two decades the men who have carried our College colors to victory have loved the name of Beaver field, and today, the mention of the name brings to the mind of every Penn State man—alumnus or undergraduate—the heroic figure of our good old General, a friend to every son of State. To think of such a friend as he, is an inspiration to higher, better things.

Let us by all means commemorate the life long work of Dr. Atherton in some fitting manner; likewise let us not forget General Beaver by permitting any change in the name of our athletic field. It will truly be a great field, and worthy of a great name, and no name is worthier, more honored, more respected, and more beloved, than that borne by General James A. Beaver.

Alumnus.

The Collegian suggests that the names East Field and West Field may be applied to the new fields. Of what significance are such names as these? And to come squarely to the point, why is any change of name suggested at all? Surely State's alumni and undergraduates should have some voice in the naming of their athletic field, and if this question were put to vote in the student body and among the alumni, the good old name of Beaver Field will unanimously be preserved.

Patronize Collegian advertisers

Copyright 1908 by
Hart Schaffner & Marx

Wherever well dressed men gather together, in sports or social affairs, or in business, you'll find the clothes as shown by the Sim store make an impression of distinction and elegance for the wearer that cannot be secured in any other way.

Look at the man in our illustration: you won't find a man better dressed, better fitted, better tailored than he looks anywhere in the world; and we'll show you clothes that will look as well as that on you.

Jas. E. Harshberger
State representative

SIM THE CLOTHIER
CORRECT DRESS FOR MEN
BELLEFONTE

Distributor Hart Schaffner & Marx, Carson Meyer & Co., Rosenwald & Wiel Pelham clothes.