Page 3 removed tomend bound Col. 10-3-57 JS.

THE STATE COLLEGIAN.

PAGE FIVE.

The Pennsylvania State College

Chartered 1855

FOR THE FREE EDUCATION OF BOTH SEXES

Schools of Language and Literature, History, Mathematics and Philosophy, Agriculture, Natural Science, Engincering, Mines and Metallurgy, offering courses of study in all branches of the Arts and Sciences. For further information address

THE REGISTRAR, State College, Pennsylvania

Professor A. H. Gill.

Mr. A. H. Gill of the class of 1900, Lehigh has been chosen to succeed Mr. Fowler as Associate Professor of Heat Engineering. Prof. Gill comes to us highly recommended and the School of Engineering is to be congratulated on its success in securing a suitable successor to Mr. Fowler so soon after his resignation.

After graduation from Lehigh Mr. Gill worked a year with the American Locomotive Works at Schenectady. He then spent two years establishing a department of Mechanical Engineering at Grove City College. From Grove City he went to the University of Pennsyl vania where he taught Steam Engines, Boilers, Thermodynamics and Experimental Engineering, for three vears. On account of his wife's ill health he went west, installing power plants in connection with the copper smelting plants of the Guggenheim interests. He returned east in January, and after Professor Fowler resigned was chosen to fill his positon.

Important.

Those who have not subscribed to the "Groff Fund" and desire to do so can have cards by applying to any member of the committee or at 273 Main. Those who have subscribed can make their payment by check to L. M. Fisher, Treasurer, State College, or in person at 273 Main. Dr. Cooley on "Constantinople."

The next number in the Free Lecture course will be an illustrated lecture on Constantinople by Professor Arthur Stoddard Cooley. Ph. D., of Boston. The date set for the lecture is Wednesday evening, March 3, at 8 p. m. Dr Cooley has lived for a number of years in Greece and Turkey, where he became familiar with the life that he portrays, and where he took the pictures with which his lectures are illustrated. He comes well recommended as an entertaining, instructive, and successful lecturer in many large cities and in scores of schools and colleges. Of the numerous lectures that he has delivered in the hall of the Boston Public Library for the past five years, the Librarian says: "Although popular and attractive to the general public, the lectures are above all instructive and scholarly, and reliable information is given in a manner interesting to young and old." Doors open at 7:30. Children under 16 years of age will not be admitted unless accompanied by adults.

The Agricultural Banquet.

The Agricultural Banquet held in McAllister Hall on Monday evening. Feb. 22, was a great success, about 250 being present. This was the fourth annual banquet and presented quite a contrast to the first one held four years ago when less than 100 were present. This fact shows the rapid strides made in the School of Agriculture. The hall was handsomely decorated with college colors, class pennants, and the products of the farm. The college orchestra furnished music. A. A. Borland '09, acted in the capacity of toastmaster and the following toasts were responded to :

The committee in charge of the affair was R. H. Bell, chairman, W. E. Gross, W. B. Nissley, I. T. Yarnell, C. F. Preston, W. C. Pelton, G. W. Cochrin, W. H. Ayers, E. A. Porter, and E. R. Cyphers.

The Honor System.

The junior and senior classes held a joint meeting in the old chapel last Thursday evening when the proposed honor system for the upper classes was further discussed. The constitution is now being passed around for the signatures of those who wish to go under the system. With the signatures of at least threefourths of the members of the upper classes and the sanction of the faculty the honor system will be a reality at State.

There will be a meeting of the 1911 preps Friday evening at 6:30 in 126 Main for the purpose of arranging for a banquet.

The Junior banquet is to be held to-night at McAllister Hall.