

Baseball Prospects.

Two weeks from today our baseball nine will play its first game of the season. The Navy is met at Annapolis on April 1, while Georgetown and Pennsylvania will be played on the two following days. This trio of opponents is a strong one and the white and blue will have to put forth its best efforts to return from the East with a majority of the scalps, especially since both the Navy and Georgetown have already had the advantage of quite a little outdoor work.

Captain Hirshman's team got its first open air work last Saturday on the parade grounds above Dean Welsh's home. While the day was rather raw and rain fell several times, the baseball men were glad to get outdoors and displayed plenty of snap and energy. An hour's batting practice was indulged in and as much fielding work.

Altogether the prospects for a good team are exceedingly bright.

Captain Hirshman, Kelly, Carson, Blythe, Butz and Brown are all good infielders although the last four named are new men to the varsity. In the outfield Ferguson only is left, but surely a sturdy pair of men can be selected from the other material, Pierce, Eberline, Piolette and Workman. "Larry" Vorhis is of course well able to hold down the catcher's position, for he is wonderfully good in steadying up a pitcher as well as an accurate thrower. Thomas is an excellent substitute for Vorhis.

It must be stated that the pitchers are worrying the captain most. With the unusually hard schedule ahead and with hard games coming three or four in a series on several occasions, State must have at least three reliable twirlers. Lynch pitched excellent ball last spring and much is expected of him this year. McCleary, too, is in the best of shape and is ready to do all in his power to win games for Penn State. Skemp, Leidich, Bray and Klepfer all seem to be well aware of the need of at least one more sturdy twirler on State's team and they are throwing themselves into the fight for a varsity position in no uncertain way. All in all, our prospects for a successful season are more than encouraging and with the State spirit behind the nine, the Collegian can only predict at this early date such a victorious baseball season as has accompanied the white and blue during the past five years.

Pharsonians Coming.

The Pharsonians have been hard at work for some time in preparation for their first performance, which will be given on Friday, March 26. This year's show will differ considerably from that presented last year. Through it all there runs a plot which furnishes excellent opportunities for working in some rare jokes, songs and local hits.

Seats will be on sale at the business office on the 24th and 25th—Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock. On the evening of the show the chart will be at the business office after 6 o'clock. No seats will be sold at the Auditorium. The prices are 35 and 50 cents.

The next number of the free lecture course will be given by Mr. C. E. Akeley, of Chicago, who is connected with the Field Museum of Natural History. The subject, "Hunting Big Game in East Africa," should be especially interesting in view of ex-president Roosevelt's expedition in the near future. Mr. Akeley has a number of views taken by himself in Africa. The date of the lecture has not yet been arranged finally, but further notice will be given later.

A FOOL FOR HIS CLIENT

has the man who is his own lawyer. Yet in how many other matters, as vitally important, do most of us act blindly, without accurate information and sound advice.
