

going to have a strong struggle to win and you will find that our own players do not feel that we are going to have "easy picking" with Bucknell this fall.

Pittsburg downed Marietta 12 to 0 last Saturday but had no easy time doing so. The University in the western end of the state is developing gradually so that Thanksgiving Day should find us face to face with a foe worthy of our mettle. "Joe" Thompson, who in 1904 played on the team which won the only clean-cut victory Pitt ever gained over State, is coaching in the Smoky City and he can be depended upon to produce a good team.

Notes on the Indian Game.

Did more than a very scattered few of the men who scrambled for seats on the conveyances at Lemont after the return from Wilkesbarre Saturday night think of the need of the fatigued team for a comfortable trip from Lemont to State College? Did the students think of the bruises and injuries our men had uncompromisingly received on the gridiron that afternoon just for love of Alma Mater, and then greedily gobble up all the available room on the wagons and let some of the football men be herded together in one small back in so small a space that some preferred walking up from Lemont carrying suit cases?

Captain Roe of Pitt, Keinath and Crooks of Pennsylvania, Cockill of Bucknell, and a dozen other prominent old college football stars took in the game from the sidelines with the view of getting "dope" on both teams. Scores of old State men athletes or otherwise, but all loyal to their Alma Mater, also witnessed the exciting struggle. The annual State-Indian game is getting to be a bigger college athletic event each year and a greater reunion of our grads than could have been imagined when the game was first arranged.

Hollenback is becoming the idol of players and students alike as a competent coach.

"Burly" Watson made some pretty tackles on Indian end runs and they were hard and low, too.

Since our fine showing against the Indians, who were swept off their feet at times by our plays, as many students as can get away are going to the Penn contest. Both the Quaker scouts who took in the State-Indian game were impressed with the aggressive football played by our sturdy gridironists.

Moving Pictures Saturday.

In the Auditorium on Saturday evening there will be produced, under the auspices of the Cadet band, a series of high class moving pictures. In trying to give an attractive and interesting entertainment the band has secured the services of the Lubin Co. of Philadelphia for the highest class of moving pictures obtainable.

This company has become noted for its manufacture of machines and films, as well as for operating a circuit of moving picture palaces in Philadelphia. They conduct an exchange whereby they are able to select films from such other well known manufacturers as Edison, Vitagraph, Essany, Selig Polyscope, Kalem, Klein, Pathe Freres etc.

Another feature of the entertainment will be selections rendered by the Band between each change of film, thus eliminating the tiring effect of watching so many pictures. Special orchestra incidental music will be played during the pictures, making the evening one sure to be well spent.

Owing to the desire of the Band Management to make it an annual college affair, it has decided to reserve no seats; but instead charge a general admission of 25 cents to any part of the Auditorium.
