

Fall and Winter 1909-10 will be known as a green and gray season in men's wear, but until you've seen the beautiful woolen samples from our Chicago Merchant Tailors, you'll have no conception of the variety of shades and patterns that can be designed in these colors.

Ed. V. Price & Co.,

A suit or overcoat made just as you want it, from your choice of fabric, at less than regular tailor's prices, ought to interest you.

culture in Pennsylvania were graphically illustrated by the orchards of D M Wertz of Waynesboro. Mr. Wertz has 167 acres in peaches and 75 in apples. In two years he sold about 98 000 baskets of peaches, the crop being worth over $70 000. Last year he sold over half that many. The land has also increased in value very much. Land that sold for $25 to $50 an acre before it was set to fruit trees, could not be bought for twenty times that amount now.

Friday night the party arrived at Harrisburg. Here it divided, half going to Wilkesbarre to the game and the other half inspecting the orchard of Gabriel Hiester, the President of the State Horticultural Society and an old Penn State man. This man's orchard was different from the other of orchards inspected in that he raised fruit for the local market, while the others supplied the general market.

The party returned Saturday feeling that they had received a large amount of practical information on but a slight expense of money.

New England Alumni Resolutions.

The New England Association of the Pennsylvania State College in its meeting at Boston, October 9th, 1909, voted that resolutions be drawn up to give expression to its sense of loss in the death of William C. Patterson, Superintendent, State College Farms, deceased Oct 2, 1909.

A committee was appointed and action taken as follows.

In the death of William C. Patterson the college has lost a wise counsellor and a tried and true friend, the best part of whose life was given up to working for the interests of the Institution, willingly, faithfully, hopefully, as a labor of love and as for his very own. The community loses a true citizen, faithful to his duties as such and active in the welfare of all. Of the family bereaved, words cannot express the sense of great loss which has befallen it. Every old "grad" or student can sense the grief of their loss for he was a father in his love, kindness and tolerance for the great student family yearly making its levy on his store of patience and helpfulness.

For the old "grad" who returns to his Alma Mater, the loss is irreparable. The kindly greeting and hearty handshake from this man of loving memory will no longer meet him and he will also know, as all who knew the man, how dear the memory and how much better all are for having had the privilege of knowing him.

Resolved—therefore, that our sympathy be extended to the bereaved family; that we express our realization of the loss which the college and community has met, and also the personal loss which we all feel, and

Resolved in accordance therewith and to such end a copy of this resolution be sent to the family, also published in the State Collegian and spread on the minutes of this Association.

Summer School for Teachers.

The college is at present preparing a circular for the first session of the summer school to be conducted here next summer for six weeks from June 20 to July 29. This summer school will be at first for teachers in Pennsylvania schools only. Classes for instruction in the departments of all the different schools will be opened, the instructors being selected from the college faculty. A number of celebrated lecturers have been engaged to give addresses during the six weeks, making the course one of inestimable value to any teacher enrolled.

W. H. Brown '08, superintendent of the Nittany Light, Heat and Power company was married on Oct. 8 to Miss Esther Herman, of State College.
