COLLEGE NOTES.

Karl Marsh '09 is in Youngstown, Ohio for Mr. A. G. McKee of Cleveland. They are building a blast furnace for the Struthers Furnace Co. Mr. Marsh writes that there are one hundred State men in Youngstown and all doing well. He is occupying a suite of rooms at The Lincoln with W. E. Martin, Homer Butterfield and J. P. Armel.

President Sparks delivered an address at the laying of the corner stone of the Y. M. C. A. building at Jersey Shore last Saturday. He will speak at the Chester County Teachers' Institute on Monday and will give a lecture in the Muhlenberg College Course, Allentown, Pa., on Thursday next.

H. H. Acheson '09 of New Concord, O., visited friends here at State College last week. He received an appointment to a second lieutenancy in the U. S. service this fall and will soon take up his duties at Fortress Monroe.

At the last meeting of the General Faculty the time in which a student taking part in athletics may present a statement showing that he is above the required grade was increased from 48 hours to 72 hours.

The smoker of the Episcopal Mission has been postponed from November 5 to November 12 on account of the Wrestling match.

About one hundred freshmen reported for their football team.

Professor J. M. Willard attended the conference of the Superintendents of Pennsylvania at Ridgway, last Friday and Saturday as the representative of the college.

R. H. Allport '09 has resigned from his position in the Mining School and will go into the bituminous coal business with his brother in the Allport Coal company.

A committee was appointed at the same meeting to secure photographs of former members of the faculty to be placed in the Faculty room in the Auditorium.

Professor P. O. Ray represented the college at the inauguration of the Rev. J. F. Dunlap as President of Albright College, Myerstown, Pa., on Thursday last.

The Sophomore-Freshmen wrestling match will be held tomorrow evening.

Do Co-eds Marry?

Of the 1,666 co-eds who have passed through the gates of the Minnesota university armed with diplomas only 380 have married. According to statistics compiled by the economics department three-fourths of the women at present in the university contemplate matrimony as a part of their life work. English universities have figured out similar statistics and find that about 33 per cent of their women graduates marry.

The busiest man is usually the one mostly in demand.

Dates for Interclass Contests.

At a recent meeting of the student council the following dates were definitely decided as permanent for the interclass scraps in the future:

Pushball contest, second Saturday after college opens.

Wrestling match, last Friday in October.

Cider scrap, first Saturday in November.

Football game, Pennsylvania Day.

Flag scrap, in the spring.

This carries out the idea originally brought forth by the pushball committee. They planned to have a scrap to engage the whole of the classes at first, then to have one between picked teams, then a class rush again, and following that a team contest. The idea is certainly a good one and will work all right next year. It will be much better than this year because of the fact that there will be no waiting for the ball to be made as was the case of the Pushball contest.

Good Advice.

All students of the college should get acquainted with their professors. A college is not a high school where the professor or instructor is a man to be dreaded and to be kept away from. One of greatest values the college has is the acquaintances made. But don't carry this familiarity too far; that is, when you meet the president, don't slap him on the back and call him "Old Hoss."—Tufts.
