

Freshman Lullaby.

Once they was a Freshman that acted kind o' smart, —

An' the Sophomores thought they'd chasten him an' tame his little heart

One night he heard a racket like the rushing of a storm

'Twas the Sophomores comin' for him in the old North Dorm.

His heart began to tremble an' he civered up his head.

But the Sophomores broke right through the door an' pulled him out of bed.

An' they kicked him an' they cuffed
him and they knocked him all about,

An' the Sophomores'll get you

 Ef you

 Don't

 Watch

 Out!

So you'd better mind your elders an'
keep off the campus too

When the 'lectric light flickers an'
the wind goes woo-oo.

And you'd better get your lessons
when the moon shines pale

E'r the Sophomores'll git you an'
ride you on a rail, —

So reverence the Seniors, and treat
the Juniors with respect

When you see a Sophomore coming
be humbie and abject,

An' when you have your feelings
hurt don't sit around and pout,

E'r the Sophomore's'll git you

 Ef you

 Don't

 Watch

 Out!

 —The Atheneaum.

Elderly Aunt—I suppose you wondered, dear little Hans, why I left you so abruptly in the lane. I saw a man, and Oh, how I ran!

Hans—"Did you get him?"—Ex.

Prof.—Can you tell me what the Goddess of Io died of?

Student—I am not sure, but I think Iodide of potassium.—Ex.
