

Toys for Professor's Baby.

It is with great pleasure that we print the following clipping from the "New York Sun" of Nov. 24. Dr. Pond was not only graduated here with the class of '92, but was on our teaching staff for several years. He is a brother of Dr. G. G. Pond.

"A boy baby arrived a little more than a week ago at the home of Dr. F. J. Pond 86 Valley road. The students of the junior class at Stevens Institute in Hoboken, where Dr. Pond is professor in chemistry, heard the welcome news and Dr. Pond was showered with congratulations by the students and the other members of the faculty.

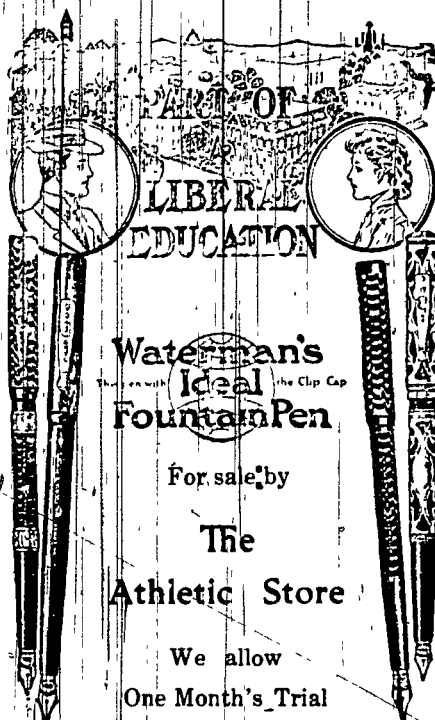

"They were not content with merely sending congratulations, and a few days later gifts for the new boy began to arrive.

When the number of gifts reached forty the family began to think that the end had come. There was a lull for a day, but yesterday the remembrances again began to pour in on the household and now the number has reached ninety. Many of the gifts are bulky, and unless they soon stop coming Dr. Pond feels that he will have to build an addition to his house.

Free Lecture Saturday.

On Saturday night we are to have the privilege of hearing a free illustrated lecture which promises to surpass any of the excellent lectures given last year. The topic will be In the Play Ground of the Human Race, a "travelogue" by George La Mont Cole of Pasadena, Cal. It is an illustrated and descriptive lecture, presenting the ruins and monuments of the ancient Cliff Dwellers. The picturesque southwest is shown, depicting the home life and industries of a people who lived there hundreds of years ago. The lecture is interspersed with incidents of travel, making the evening one of entertainment as well as profit.

We urge a large attendance for
