Opposite the Postoffice

Her Yule-tide Gifts.

By W. Carey Wonderly.

A pipe, a bronze, a stein of blue,
A pillow top, a book or two
Each Yule-tide Phyllis sends me.
And just as dear as dear can be
Are all these precious gifts to me,
With which the rogue befriends me.

Yet still, I trust and hope and pray
That Phyllis will, some Xmas Day,
Give me a greater blessing.
More dear it is than fame or pelf.
Ah, well she knows it is herself!
And yet she keeps me guessing.

Poor Santa.

Littly Johnny, (as he sees the packages being left by the delivery boy)—"Tell Santa that I'm sorry that he is sick."

A Youthful Reflection.

"Girls ain't no sense no way. Just as soon as they get stockings big enough to hold lots of things they stop hanging up their stockings."

Turkey and stockings go together at Christmas time. They both hang high.

"Isn't Christmas splendid, father?"

"Great, my child! If Christmas didn't come along once a year, we might never know how much the trades people trust us."

If you don't happen to have any mistletoe, never mind, love always finds a way.
