The Second Semester.

Examinations are over. To some they meant success and to others failure. But examination weeks without failures are well nigh impossible, and the warning that such a result brings should be the incentive to better work. Now is the time to take stock. Every man knows whether he is doing justice to himself, and to those who send him here, better than any one else. A college man should be a thinking man and a man who thinks at all should know his own personal standing

Some of the failures can no doubt be attributed to hard luck and circumstances, and to those the experience should not be a bad blow. We have the chance for a square deal here, and little difficulties can be straightened out in a manner satisfactory to all parties concerned.

There is very little of the personal element manifested in the results of examination week, and a man who is willing to do the right thing generally gets the chance to do it.

Let all those who caught flunks resolve that they will be the last ones, and start the new semester with the right spirit. "Success don't consist of never making a mistake, but in never making the same one the second time."

Wrestling.

The signal victory of our wrestling team over the Penn wrestlers, on Jan. 22 last, brings to our attention the fact that there is another branch of athletics which should receive the attention of the Athletic Association.

The action of the Association, in refusing recognition and support to the Hockey Club lies along the same lines as the action that was taken when Tennis was presented for recognition two years ago. There is the sentiment that the Athletic Association supports enough sports now, and the sport that receives recognition will have to show that the benefits to the College will be great enough to merit that recognition.

The Wrestling club has shown by the way the men won the meet with Penn that it is alive, and up to date. The value of this one victory may be sufficient to place State in the Intercollegiate Wrestling League and if such a result can be obtained the Club should receive support. The hard work it took to win that meet with Penn deserves mention, in view of the fact that examinations were close at hand, and the time spent on the mat, was spent at a great risk to some of the men. Every man on the team deserves the admiration of all who saw the meet. The club is to be congratulated for their spirit, and the successful outcome of the meet.

"Important."

All material, photographs and literary matter, must be in by Feb. 15. We urge that all organizations, wishing to go in the La Vie, supply us with photographs—unmounted and for half toning—and with the names of the members, etc. This matter should be taken up immediately as we will not be responsible for delayed or faulty material.

All La Vie dues must be paid by Feb 15, 1910, because the junior photographs will be sent to the engravers at that time.

The bulletin of the School of Agriculture and Experiment Station has just been issued. The Engineering School bulletin is at the printer's and the Mining School bulletin is in course of preparation. Later all of these bulletins will be assembled in to the general catalogue to be issued in June.
