One of the reasons for the great popularity soccer football has attained, is that although the game waxes warm, there is little fear of the onlookers witnessing fatal or dangerous accidents. This element is practically eliminated on account of the stringent rules regarding pushing, tripping, and the like. It is a clean, fair game from the beginning of the forty-five minute period until the end.

The fellows are reporting in the evenings to "Bull" McCleary and "Alex" Gray, and although the number that have reported so far is not as large as we would like to see, nevertheless more are coming out as the weather becomes a little more pleasant for sports. The intention here at State is to have an annual soccer game, the seniors and sophomores pitted against the juniors and freshman, and the game to take the place of the annual track meet at commencement time. Let us have at least thirty men from each class at the next practice, on Saturday afternoon.

Soccer Football.

Soccer Football is no doubt rapidly gaining a foothold in the American college. At most of our eastern colleges it has recently been taken up with great interest by the students and it is to be hoped that it will arouse as much enthusiasm here at State.

The game is played on a field of the same size as the one used for rugby football. In the centre of the field, a circle of about ten yards radius is drawn, around which the five forwards of the contesting teams form. Besides the five forwards, the team is composed of three halfbacks, two fullbacks and a goal keeper. The object of the game is to dribble the ball along the ground with the use of the feet and finally to kick it, safely between the goal posts and under the bar, which feat counts one point.

Notice! Notice! Notice!

One day last week somebody walked out of the Track House with a shoe box containing a pair of brand new track shoes belonging to Lee Talbot. The person who took them undoubtedly did so by mistake but his mistake has caused considerable inconvenience. Talbot needs these shoes for the meet against the Navy next Saturday, and if the fellow who made the mistake will be a man and return the shoes immediately to Manager Summers, nothing more will be said or done about it.

Juniors Electricals Inspection Trip.

The Junior Electricals spent Monday and part of Tuesday, May 9 and 10, in the inspection of the Edison Electric Power Co. Plant at Williamsport, Pa. The trip was taken under the direction of instructors Gill and Calderwood.
