Sometimes the complaint is heard that a college newspaper occupies itself too much with criticism. Such criticism is often unavoidable. During the past few weeks the Collegian has made several comments on certain conditions existing in and about the college. The stand we have taken in the various subjects discussed has not been decided upon hastily but only after careful and deliberate consideration with the welfare of the college at heart, and many times after we have been urged by both students and alumni.

At this time of the year when all nature seems to be cooperating with us in making our campus the most beautiful of its kind, we are very apt to overlook the fact that our carelessness and forgetfulness in throwing paper and tobacco bags about promiscuously, detracts considerably from the otherwise unparalleled beauty of our campus. We realize too that the average fellow is not particularly anxious to walk around with a pocket full of waste paper or empty tobacco bags. If he throws them out into the road it is only a matter of a few minutes before they can be seen blowing about over the campus. The question arises as to what shall be done with this rubbish and we believe that the problem has been solved for us by the progressive and up to date towns and cities of the country. In many places galvanized iron cans are placed on certain corners for the reception of paper and debris, and although the streets are not kept entirely free from paper and rubbish, their appearance, however, is materially improved. With such proofs forming the basis of our opinion we believe that this system can be advantageously applied as a remedy for the similar condition existing here. Galvanized iron cans painted green and placed near the walks at various points about the campus, would not be unsightly nor would they become an eyesore, and the improvement made possible by their use would be very noticeable.

May 30, Memorial Day, will be a half holiday as usual. The exercises under the direction of the Sophomore class will be held at Dr. Atherton's grave at 4 o'clock. Judge Harry A. Hall of Ridgway, Pennsylvania, a personal friend of D. Atherton, will give the address.

J. W. Allen '09 and H. H. Glenn '09, have been transferred from Chicago to the physical laboratories of the Western Electric company at New York City.
