

FAREWELL TO "THE GAY SOUBRETTE"

Mimi and Her Cohorts Make Their Final Appearance Tomorrow Evening.

Undoubtedly the most successful and memorable comedy that the Penn State Thespians ever produced, will be staged for the last time in the Auditorium tomorrow evening. Only a few months ago, "The Gay Soubrette" brought untold joy to fascinated audiences in Bloomsburg, Sunbury, Clearfield and Bellefonte and now for the second time it will be the sensation of the hour in State College.

Never in the history of the organization has a production been marked by the excellence of this play or by the talent of the individual players. Seniors Foster, Armstrong, Mattern and Sloan don the costumes for the last time and the merit displayed by these men in their different roles, is of such a character that their places will be difficult to satisfactorily fill in next seasons show.

Tomorrow night then will bring this season's Thespian play to a close. There will be everything to make you laugh, weep and shrink for joy, so let your spirits run high and let your mood harmonize with that of those who will entertain you from the shadow of the footlights, and remember forever "The Gay Soubrette."

Froth's New Editors.

At the last meeting of the Froth board, J. M. Spangler was elected editor-in-chief, W. S. Hoffman, art editor and E. O. Arthur, business manager. Mr. Spangler is in every way capable to fulfill the obligations placed upon him by his position and we wish him every success in his undertaking. Mr Hoffman's art work, with which we are all familiar, stands out prominently and his efforts will be of material advantage in keeping Froth's standard at the top. The business ability of Mr. Arthur amply qualifies him to advance the interests of the paper on a business basis.
