greater harmony might exist and so there may be no conflicting performances. When this is done matters will be greatly facilitated and conditions will be bettered.

A. W. Fisher.

Mr. Fisher, editor-in-chief of the Collegian during the past year, most certainly is deserving of great credit for his untiring efforts and successful endeavors in behalf of this paper. During his term of office the paper has manifested a remarkable advance in its character and is on a better basis at the present time than it has ever been before, a thing chiefly due to the excellence of his executive ability.

J. F. Mattern.

As assistant editor of the Collegian, Mr. Mattern has been of invaluable aid to the editor and has taken an active interest in the paper's progress at all times. His joyful disposition has always made it possible for him to secure interviews with the most exclusive and his contributions to the paper have been both interesting and instructive.

The Baccalaureate Sermon.

The Baccalaureate Sermon was delivered on Sunday by the Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D. D., Pastor of the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church, Brooklyn. Dr. Boynton was graduated from Amherst in '79, in the same class with Dr. J. E. Tuttle, of York, whom we had the pleasure of hearing this spring in the Auditorium. The text, taken from the twenty-eighth chapter of Isaiah, was, "He that believeth shall not make haste."

The speaker dwelt upon the predominant feature of American life, the frenzied desire for haste, and showed that it should not be allowed to become the master spirit of our civilization. His discussion of belief pictured well the fact that belief is really advanced; that its progress is never checked or fettered; that it will triumph without that assisting factor, haste. The sermon was strong and masterful, interesting and inspiring, well fitted to serve as a last farewell talk to the departing senior class.

Talbot, Track Captain.

At the meeting of the track team last week, Lee J. Talbot, '11 was elected Captain of the track team for next year. Undoubtedly next year's team under the new leader will be one of the most successful that State has ever put out, in consideration of the fact that but two men Crawford and "Sid" Armsby from this year's aggregation are lost.

Captain Howarth has indeed made a name for the team this year and we all wish his successor an endless chain of victories in 1911.

F. H. Berkebile.

Mr. Berkebile filled the position of business manager of the paper during the past with rare ability, his discretion in the matter of successfully manipulating the business department being beyond reproach. His task, a hard one from all viewpoints, did not cause him to shrink and the results of his many labors are best represented by the paper itself.
