THE DICKINSON GAME

Penn State Scores 8-3 Victory; Eberlein Drives Terrific Home Run. Hard Hitting and Clean Fielding Features of Game.

As Seton Hall cancelled its game scheduled here for last Saturday, the April campaign of the varsity was brought to an end with a good 8 to 3 victory over Dickinson last Friday on new Beaver field. Thus during the first month of our 1911 baseball season, we triumphed over Bellefonte Academy, Washington and Lee, the Navy, Dartmouth, Springfield T. S., St. John's College, and Dickinson, and lost to Washington and Lee, Brown and Princeton. Seventy per cent of the games played during April were victories, and contests with Virginia and Manhattan (two) were prevented by rain.

The weather man furnished a "real baseball day" last Friday for the encounter with the Dickinsonians and every single student turned out for the battle, the biggest part of the crowd going into the "New 1911 Grandstand" for the first genuine college game of the season at home. Because the redoubtable Hoch, pitching for the visitors, spent too much time in by-play the game was slow but our nine played errorless ball and well deserved to win.

Trouble began for Dickinson in the second inning when Cook dropped Blythe's high fly, Young sin'g to right and Minich walked, filling the bases with one out. Both scored a long single to left field and two men scored. Then Craig hit to left and two more tallies came in.

The visitors became lively in the fifth inning when Gilbert and Patterson worked Minich for passes after Cook had singled to middle. Stugert hit between first and second. At this point Minich retired in Klepfer's favor and "Bruno" had things his own way after Wise had knocked in Dickinson's third run on a low one to center field Minich had been wild up to his reticement from the Dickinson game, but he will duplicate his earlier feats in pitching later on as Jay "has the goods." Klepfer became stronger as the game waxed older and succeeded in fanning four men without issuing a pass.

Eberlein was first man up for State in the fifth and he landed on the first ball pitched for a smashing drive over Patterson's head that gave him one of the longest home runs made on the new field. Then in the sixth inning Bubb got to first on Foley's error, stole second, was sacrificed to third by Craig and scored on Stugert's error. A moment later Workman lifted one over Cook's head for a triple and scored on Eberlein's sacrifice fly. Bubb made our final run in the eighth when he secured Hoch's base on balls, stole second and third, and scored on Dipple's low throw to catch him at third Bubb's running, the hitting of Craig, Young, Cook, Eberlein and Workman, Eberlein's splendid catch of Gilbert's line in the second inning, and the errorless support afforded our pitchers, featured the seventh consecutive victory of the Blue and White over the Carlisle college. The manner in which Coach McCleary is imbuing the spirit of teamplay and victory to Penn State over individual batting averages and a one, or two, or a three man team is to be commended. Our lineup looked strong indeed and it is pleasing that Klepfer is rounding into his last year's form.

FRESHMEN WIN FLAG SCRAP

INTERESTING SCRAP TOWARDS END

Freshmen Find Little Trouble in Keeping the Sophomores at Bay. Large Crowd Turns Out to Witness Another Freshman Victory.

At 5:10 a. m. yesterday morning the Freshmen succeeded in eluding the watchful eyes of the Sophomore guards and safely planted their flag pole to the rear of the Ladies Cottage without any interception by the Sophomores. Waiting until the guards were weary after a long nights vigil, the pole bearers brought the coveted piece of lumber from Prof. Pattee's cellar where it had been carefully stored away for sometime, and proceeded to the hole made for the purpose. In three short minutes, 1914 had its official flag floating in the breeze, guarded by a host of staunch members of the class. Not until twenty minutes had elapsed did the Sophomores have a sufficient force collected together to be of any practical use in making an onslaught. In the meantime, the Freshmen were kept busy capturing men who came within distance and binding them. In this condition many remained until released by their comrades.

During the larger part of the scrap, very few vigorous attempts were made on the part of the Sophomores to gain possession of the situation. Their attack was not planned and their fighting was not consistent. As a result little effort was needed on the part of the defenders to hold their own around the pole. An interesting feature during the scrap was the attempt made by those attacking the Freshmen to smuggle past the 1914 guards the well known mixture of graphite and flour with which it was hoped to lessen the fighting ardor of the Blue and Gold. These numerous attempts were met with decided opposition to such an extent that no more than five bags of the material succeeded in passing the vigilant Freshmen, every bit being intercepted before hailing distance was reached.

Not until the final twenty minutes did the Sophomores seem to realize that in order to have any chance at all of securing the flag, they would need to fight with more enthusiasm and life. At this point they made an attack on the north side of the pole, but to no avail. The return fighting by the Freshmen was done with just as much precision and strength as that handed out by their opponents in an effort to move the pole from its moorings. The flag gave way a little, but not enough to cause any worry in the 1914 camp. During the last few minutes the Sophomores fought bravely in their final attempt to wrest victory from defeat. In this they were again unsuccessful for they began too late to take advantage of what seemed to be a weak spot in their opponent's defense.

At the call of time the fighting was even with no advantage to either side except that 1914 still retained possession of its flag which it had so nobly defended during the entire scrap

First Section Rifle Meet. Last Saturday afternoon on the Armory Range the Chemists defeated the Civils and Electricals in the first Inter-section Rifle meet. The first match between these three teams was arranged partly as an experiment. However, judging from the enthusiasm shown by the men interested in the sport on Saturday, the success of the plan is assured. Considering the fact that nearly a thousand men drill, from which number not more than ten per cent can shoot under normal conditions, the organization of some society to encourage sharpshooting is an excellent plan.

In the match the chemists averaged the highest score, their final count being 410. The civils, however, had high individual score, LeFevre securing 45 out of a possible 50 points. Veris, chemist, and Tobias, electrical, each scored 44 points for their respective teams. The next match will be between the Miners, Agriculturalists and Faculty, and will be played on Saturday at 1:30 p. m. on the Armory Range. All new men who desire to enter the coming meets should hand their names to Manager Corbett or to the leaders of their respective sections.

The official score:
Chemists—Watts 42, Devers 39, Diehl 42, Roop 39, Voris 44, Shaw 42, Bodenstien 42, Leiby 42, Lamade 40, J. P. Smith 38. Average 41.0 points.

Teacher's Conference.

The annual conference of High School principals of the state of Pennsylvania will be held in the Auditorium on Friday, May the fifth. There has been about sixty principals invited and it is expected to have at least forty in attendance. The invitations were sent to towns which have a population between 6000 and 15000, while last year they included only the towns with a population greater than 15000.

The Pennsylvania State College has long felt the desirability of bringing into closer contact the principals of schools who prepare students for college and the teachers of the Freshmen with whom students come in contact during their first year. Many problems are common to both these classes of instructors. The purpose of the conference is to discuss the problems which directly concern the college and high school.

No set speeches will be made or papers read, but a questionnaire will be circulated in advance as a guide to the discussion. In addition to this many other questions will come up for discussion, which will be of special interest to all in attendance.

On the day selected for this conference will also be held the interscholastic track and field events on Beaver Field in which many high schools and academies through out the state will be represented.

At the afternoon session, S. E. Weber, Professor of Education, the Pennsylvania State College, will preside; at the evening session, W. S. Hertzog, State High School Inspector, Harrisburg.

The program as arranged will commence at 11:40 a. m. when a meeting for organization will be held. At 4:00 p. m. the session will be resumed and problems of administration well be discussed. During the evening session beginning at 8:00 p. m., problems of admission will be taken up.

County Clubs Take Notice

The management of the interscholastic meet which is to be held tomorrow, requests that all county and city clubs help entertain and house those athletes who come from their respective counties. Accommodations must be secured for at least 40 men so it is urged upon these clubs to aid in this matter. Arrangements should be made as once with C. C. Fritz, assistant manager.

Agricultural Society.

All men in the school of agriculture should make a special effort to be on hand at the regular meeting on Monday night. Dr. Hunt will address the society and will have something of interest to all.
