

"THE CLIMATOLOGERS"

The Thespians, Penn State's Admirable Theatrical Organization, Will Give Final Performance During Commencement Week.

On Tuesday evening, June 13, the Thespians will enhance the enjoyment of Commencement week, by giving the production, which once before has met with great success at State College. The performance which admirably pictures the glorious environments and the social atmosphere of State College, was roundly applauded and received much appreciation during the long tour of our artists in the state. Not alone was the Auditorium crowded at the last production, but the play houses of Lancaster, Harrisburg Clearfield and Shamokin were filled, and the Climatologers were well entertained and taken care of after the play. At Punxsutawney, the production met with marked appreciation, and when the trip finally ended in Bellefonte, the fame of this company, which expounded such mysterious sciences, had been so widely spread, that the last performance achieved unbounded success, by having a large and enthusiastic audience.

The cast at the present time is working in even better unison than before and is again preparing to unravel the most astounding mysteries of Climatology, especially to those who were unfortunate enough not to have seen the first production at the College.

In the part of "Bob Janney," a student, H. P. Armstrong, greatly adds to the excellence of the entire play, by the rendition of several vocal numbers. E. E. Ludwick, as "Mrs. Payne," the wealthy widow, who is forced to acknowledge the wierd forces of Climatology, plays his part in excellent manner. "Dora Manning," Mrs. Payne's niece is impersonated creditably by Alexander Gray, III. The wonderful science of Climatology, which has saved hundreds from destruction is explained by Dr. Knowlitt, in whose part Mr. Hassler shows himself perfectly at home. The role of "Mary Knowlitt," synonymous with charm and beauty, is taken by R. F. Hemingway. E. F. Tanguy as "Archie Montgomery" does remarkably well in "College Sights". Alexander Gray, as a Scotch chauffeur performs a dance, which will be of interest to all. R. T. Gheen as the "Bashful Freshmen," and Mr. Guthrie as "Tillie Tuttle," both do creditable work. The chorus of girls, whose grace cannot be described by ordinary words is made up of:—C. M. Breiting, P. G. Salom, E. F. Glock, C. E. Crone-myer, E. F. James, C. P. Trotter, and L. C. Barton Jr. As men we have:—E. C. Turner, A. N. Hoover, B. A. Dariagh, K. S. Stevenon, D. W. Lloyd, W. R. Murphy, and J. M. Snyder.

In accrediting praise to the company, which performs in such a light and graceful manner, none too much can be ascribed to Coach Downing, whose genius we have to thank for the existence of the play, which contains so many familiar scenes and reminiscences. His efficient coaching has placed it upon the pedestal it now occupies. Much credit is also due to Manager Milholland, whose untiring efforts have greatly contributed to the success of the entire enterprise.

If space permitted, we would relate the entire interesting story of the Climatologers, but as it does not, we urge you to secure your seat at an early date, for it is feared that the Auditorium will not suffice to accommodate all who are desirous of indulging in one of the most pleasing of Commencement enjoyments. All students should come. Yes, everybody should take advantage of the opportunity. Tuesday evening, June 13th. Many delights to cool and refresh on a hot June evening.

Study and Travel in Germany.

The German department under the management of Prof. Fehr has just completed the organization of a class of fourteen ladies, nearly all teachers of German, for study and travel in Germany. The party will sail June 21 from Baltimore with the

CADET BAND CONCERTS.

One Held To-day—Another Special One for To-morrow.

The annual concert of the Cadet Band was given this morning at 9 o'clock instead of being given at that time on Monday morning, June 12. Each year this organization gives its best concert on the day of the reviewing of the Cadet Regiment. It can be said, truthfully, that the concert of this morning lacked nothing to make it a repetition of, or even to exceed former excellent concerts. A large number of highly pleased visitors, members of the faculty, and students enjoyed the well selected and splendidly rendered music.

The Band, under the leadership of P. M. Snavely, opened the concert with a popular march which was followed by an overture,—"Drummer of the Guard." Other numbers say that they have had enough of the pleasure received from them.

Mr. P. M. Snavely will conduct the band in the following numbers: A March, "Semiramis," "Scarf Dance," "Il Trovatore," Ballet music from Faust, "Fest," and a closing march.

Considering the fact that this will be the last concert held on the campus for this year, there should be an unusually large attendance for the natural beauty of our campus lends an indescribable pleasure to that which is ever present with our sacred concerts at Penn State. Furthermore, this concert will mark the close of a year of most successful leadership by P. M. Snavely and great credit is due him as well as the members of the Cadet Band.

MUSICAL CLUBS CONCERT

All Musical Organizations to Combine to Produce Splendid Concert. Their Last Appearance with Best Selections on Program.

The concert to be held in the Auditorium promptly at 7:45 tonight, promises to be exceptionally good and to be one which should demand the attention of all lovers of both instrumental and vocal music. The College Symphony orchestra and the Combined Musical clubs, with Mr. Arthur and Mr. Gray in special numbers, will present a program which will serve as a sure source of genuine pleasure to all present.

Throughout the year, our Orchestra and the Musical clubs have been making untiring efforts to reach a mark of excellence heretofore unknown to a Penn State audience. How well they have succeeded will be shown to-night but there is no doubt but that after a year of strenuous work by every man concerned, the affair will lack nothing to furnish the highest form of entertainment, and a big success is assured.

The Orchestra has, within the past year, accomplished equally as much and probably more than the orchestras of previous years. We owe a great deal to this organization for the successes of our dramatic shows and musical entertainments, for at all times they have done consistent and efficient work. With Mr. Snavely as director they have shown a decided improvement and not enough praise can be extended to him and the orchestra. To-night they will fill the first part of the program with the classical numbers: "Oberon Overture", "Ballet Egyptian", and "Unfinished Symphony" by Schubert. Mr. E. O. Arthur in his Cello Solo—"Nocturne" by Chopin will furnish such rare pleasure as those who have already heard him well know he can provide.

The Glee club, lead by A. F. Gray, 3rd, and the Mandolin clubs, under the leadership of J. H. Westerman, have been assisted for some time by Mr. G. Clemann of Williamsport. In past concerts this year, the Glee club has arisen to all expectations and it will readily be seen that their labors were not in vain when they produce the famous "Soldiers Chorus" by Gounod, to-night. "De Coppah Moon", and "The Soldiers Dream" will be rendered equally as well.

Two short solos sung by Alexander Gray in his characteristic manner promise a touch of additional beauty to the concert.

If the pretty and lately popular "Baccarolle" by Offenbach, which is to be played by a sextette of the Mandolin club, were alone on the program, it would serve to entertain by itself but this club will also present, "Wooing" and "Meteor"; "Annie Laurie" and "Fathers Lullaby" will be rendered by the Quartette which has shown its merit in many ways on past occasions of this year. They were represented, and well received at the concert at Pittsburg after the State-Pitt game of last Thanksgiving.

At the conclusion of the concert, a dance will be held in the Armory. Admission will be granted to anyone who holds a concert program

North German Lloyd steamer "Casel" and will return in September to New York with the Holland American steamer "Rotterdam." Among the members are Dr. Margaret B. McDonold and Miss Susan K. Becker of this college. The course covers ninety hours of instruction from masters in Berlin and Pirna-on-the-Elbe, and by a recent vote of the faculty entitles those completing it in a satisfactory manner to six credit hours. There will be a three weeks' itinerary through Germany, Switzerland, and Holland.

Special Notice.

on the programme were: "Anthony and Cleopatra," "Madam Sherry," "Lustpiel," and a concluding march. Thanks alone are not sufficient to express the gratitude of all for this free entertainment.

To-morrow afternoon at 3:30 p.m. instead of at 4 o'clock, as announced on the schedule of commencement events, the Cadet Band will render its final sacred concert on the front campus or in the Auditorium in case of inclement weather. Admission will be free.

Anyone who heard the concert of this morning will also want to be present at to-morrow's performance, for the band is noted for its characteristic sacred concerts, and although quite a few have been given throughout the year, no one can truthfully
