PENNS STATE 5 CORNELL 0

Football Team Outplays Ithaca Eleven—Engle Scores Only Touchdown—Harlow Plays Star Game.

Penn State triumphed over Cornell last Saturday afternoon by the score of 5 to 0. The single touchdown of the game was the result of a blocked kick by Harlow on Cornell's fifteen yard line, Engle scooping up the ball and, with fine interference given by three men, running fifteen yards for a touchdown. For the greater part of the game our team outplayed Cornell. The good work in defense given by the backs and the magnificent showing of the line, combined with Cornell's fumbling procured a well deserved victory for the Blue and White. Very and Page by good consistent football, outplayed the ends of Cornell; and tackles Harlow and Engle displayed some of the hardest tackling shown on Percy field this year. Harlow showed also brilliant work in the offense. His exceptional speed in getting down under punts enabled him to make about 60 per cent. of the tackles during the game for Penn State. In the backfield Mauthe, Miller, Barrett and Berryman proved themselves dangerous men for Cornell. The satisfactory result of the Cornell game showed that Coaches McCleary, Hollenback and Weaver have developed a well balanced team and one, that besides being powerful in both defense and offense, is all the more consistent in playing ability when the tight stages of the game are reached.

At the beginning of the game the Cornell team blocked Penn State's advances successfully, but when our offense got started, aided by a penalty of forty yards on Cornell, the ball went far into Cornell's territory and remained there for the greater part of the game. After the big penalty, although Mauthe tried several field goals, but failed to get them high enough, the Blue and White managed to keep the ball well in their opponent's territory until the eventful second period arrived.

Cornell regained the ball on her 20 yard line, O'Conner, who in the absence of Butler, was kicking for Cornell, dropped back for a punt. He was not quite quick enough, and Harlow, by a lightning lunge through the line blocked the kick and "Dad" Engle ran fifteen yards for the only touchdown of the game. The fact that our men were following the ball was evidenced by the speed of the recovery of the blocked kick. Mauthe failed to score the sixth point, but the damage was already done to Cornell.

In the second half Cornell came back strong. There were many exchanges of punts, but Miller, aided by fine interference given by the ends and other backs, ran the punts back like a shot. Cornell soon discovered that in the punting game, too, she was outplayed. Hawkins and O'Conner were the best ground gainers for Cornell, netting thirty-five yards in the second and third periods. Frequent fumbling by Cornell and the brilliant work of our line stopped the advances of the Ithacans and in reality Penn State's goal was never in danger of being crossed.

In the last period, Penn State clearly outplayed their opponents. Mauthe tried for another field goal from the 40 yard line, but failed. Mauthe ran off the right tackle, and with ten yards to go (in three tries) we lost the ball on Cornell's two yard line. Besides the consistent work of our ends, and the good judgment shown by the backfield in offense and defense, Clarke played well at centre. Hansen showed up in a pleasing manner at left guard, and Goedecke played a good game at right guard in addition to the remarkable aggressiveness of the tackles Harlow and Engle.

The splendid victory over Cornell Saturday is only the second time we have beaten them in football. In 1907 Penn State defeated the same team 8 to 6, but Saturday was the first time that Cornell has been defeated and at the same time shut out without a score. In appreciation of the victory there was a large bonfire Saturday evening.

Without Money and Without Price.

Studes, on Sunday evening you are going to get something in this town which will be absolutely free. Did you ever hear anything like it before? Just think of it—as free as the air. And take a tip from those who know that it will be more than worth while. Since college opened in September, the band, under the direction of P. M. Snavelly, '12, has been working hard and faithfully, and on Sunday night will offer the first fruit of their efforts. With the addition of much excellent material, the band is better than it ever has been heretofore, and the concert on Sunday night will show the quality of music that has been attempted. Now if you can appreciate really good music, you will turn out on Sunday evening and show your loyalty to the band. Every one will be welcome. Remember, the price of admission is—nothing. Look over the following program and get in line for a seat at 8:00 sharp in the Auditorium.

Pennsylvania Gains Power.

Pennsylvania has gotten through her preliminary season without any very bad breaks. It is true that Gettysburg and Dickinson have scored on her but neither score meant very much. Had Penn kept in her regular team against Dickinson last Wednesday, she would probably have run up a score in the forties. A similar score might have been made against Villanova Saturday. But these games have been used merely as practice and to try out the wealth of material at hand. The trying out process is pretty well over with and from now on the coaches can put their whole mind on developing team play.

Pennsylvania must show better form each week if she is to get through the season without a defeat for despite the talk of Penn's poor schedule, she actually has a harder schedule than any team in the country barring the Indians, possibly. Next Saturday, Penn meets the Brown eleven, a team having in its ranks eight men of last year's eleven which gave Yale the worst trouncing Old Eli has had for many years. They promise to do the same to Penn and they may do it as they have a remarkably fine eleven. The following week, State College plays at Philadelphia and those who have seen the State eleven say that it is one of the best ever sent out by that institution. State's victory over Cornell last Saturday tends to prove this.

School and Home League Meetings. The board of managers of the Philadelphia League of Home and School Associations met in the rooms of the Board of Education in City Hall at Philadelphia recently and outlined the program to be followed at the annual meeting of the association November 2 and 3.

"The Out-of-School Life of the Child" will be the general topic of the meetings and notable speakers and educators from all parts of the State and elsewhere have been engaged for the occasion. Among the speakers who have accepted requests to address the association at its meetings in Philadelphia is Dr. S. E. Weber of the Pennsylvania State College.

J. H. Devor '12, has been elected baseball manager for the season of 1912.

TRACK TRIALS.

More Freshman Candidates Out. Good Showing in the Events.

At the second track meet of the season for new and old men, excepting "S" men, held last Saturday on New Beaver Field, quite a large number of freshmen reported for trial. A few more sophomores were out but altogether there were very few men to compete in all the events. A number of the records of the first track trials were broken and most of the new material has improved since then. Savery '14, ran the mile in excellent time, while Castaneda did well in the 220 yard dash and the high jump, both events being won very easily and with a big margin.

The summary of events follows: 100 yard dash—Emmert, first; Hedrick, second; Bole, third. Time, 10-4 seconds.

220 yard dash—Castaneda, first; Thorne, second; Cornell, third. Time, 24-1 seconds.

440 yard dash—Neely, first; Ashbruck, second. Time, 57-2 seconds.

Half Mile Run—Sharpe, first; Robison, second; McCord, third. Time, 2 minutes, 12 seconds.

Mile Run—Savery, first; Shetstone, second; Fisher, third. Time, 4 minutes, 54-1 seconds.

Two mile run—Entwisle first; Allen, second; Kriebel, third. Time, 11 minutes, 16-1 seconds.

Broad jump—Clemmer, first; Whetstone, second; Hancock, third. Distance, 20 feet, 3 inches.

High jump—Castaneda, first; Hoopes and Hancock, second. Height, 5 feet.

220 yard low hurdles—Chamberlin, first; Allison, second; Whetstone, third. Time, 28-3 seconds.

Pole vault—Mathers, first; Carpenter, second. Height, 9 feet, 4 inches.

The Reserves Game.

The Penn State Reserves met defeat at the hands of the Lock Haven Normal School team on Saturday at Lock Haven by the score of 11-5. The Normal School boys excelled in the forward pass and outplayed our Reserve team in nearly every stage of the game, although each man of the Reserves played hard at all times and by so doing we were rewarded by Shupe's touchdown. Nealon was the star performer for the Normal School having scored both touchdowns for that team.

The line up—

Villanova Plays Here Saturday.

Penn State will meet the fast Villanova team Saturday afternoon on Beaver Field. Past games with this team have always been exciting and fast. In late years Villanova and Penn State have clashed on the gridiron three times, two of these resulting in victories for Penn State and the game of last year ending in a tie, 0-0. So far this season, Villanova has been playing a good game and can be counted on to give the home team a hard fight for victory.

"BIG BILL" HOLLENBACK

Penn Star of 1908 Making Good as Football Coach—Has Had Three Successful Years.

William H. Hollenback, popularly known throughout the college world as "Big Bill" Hollenback, one of the most brilliant players that ever wore the Red and Blue of the University of Pennsylvania, is now engaged upon the third year of his career as a football coach. As coach, no player in recent years is more suitably qualified for the position of leading and directing plays, because no player has a better knowledge of the gridiron game than "Big Bill," whose general excellence as an offensive and defensive player entitled him to first choice as fullback on the All-American eleven in 1908.

Hollenback made a reputation for himself while playing with Phillipsburg, Pa. High school. At the time in which he was on this team Phillipsburg had one of the speediest teams of high school lads in the state. After being a star in high school, Hollenback entered University of Pennsylvania. With a brilliant future before him, in 1905, Hollenback was hurt in practice and compelled to remain out of the game for the balance of the year. He started in the 1906 season at center, but owing to the weakness in the Penn backfield, was soon shifted behind the line. Following Hollenback's placement at fullback, the team braced wonderfully and finished strong at the close of the season. Although starring at center, he played an even better game in the backfield and gave every indication then of becoming one of Penn's greatest backs. The improvement of play in 1907 was only as expected, but in 1908, as captain, "Big Bill" outdid himself, and by defense and offense in connection also with his punting ability, was classed with only one other football star of the season, "Ted" Coy, of Yale. Hollenback was chosen as the All-American fullback in 1908 by Walter Camp and almost every newspaper in the United States. He well deserved the distinction and is now classed as Penn's greatest player.

Hollenback's untiring energy and spirit added to the great ability to impart football knowledge to his team mates, led him to be chosen as head coach for Penn State in 1907. What "Big Bill" was as a football player, he clearly demonstrated as a coach. Not only did he give the Penn State players the Red and Blue system in all its finished details, but he also conceived several innovations of his own by which that year Penn State played Penn to a standstill 3-3, held the strong Indian team 8-8 and defeated the University of Pittsburg 6-0.

Temperamentally, Hollenback is an ideal coach. He is the personification of fire, dash, courage, fierceness and skill. As aids to the man that turned out such a team as represented Penn State in 1909 were Le Roy Scholl, a former captain, and Harry C. McIlveen, a famous halfback and end.

Last season Dr. Hollenback was called to the University of Missouri. In the Middle West he was considered as a very successful coach. The University of Missouri had a fairly good season, losing only one
