

THE VILLANOVA GAME

Penn State Revenges Last Year's Tie Score—New Men Show Up Well.

In one of the roughest games ever played on New Beaver Field Villanova was outclassed by Captain Very's football machine. The game was played on a soft field, yet our men were able to show their superiority over the Main Liners.

Mauthe opened the game by kicking to Villanova, who returned the ball ten yards. During this quarter State lacked aggressiveness and was held even by its opponents. Just prior to the ending of the first quarter, Miller, who had been substituted for Hermann, brought the three thousand spectators to their feet by making a sensational twenty-five yard run. The period ended with the ball on Villanova's 37 yard line. State showed up better in the second quarter but were again held scoreless by their opponents although the ball remained in Villanova's territory practically all of the time. The second quarter ended with the ball in State's possession and thirty-two yards from Villanova's goal line.

Evidently "Big Bill" and Captain Very injected spirit into the players between the halves as they started off with a whirlwind rush at the beginning of the third quarter and kept the stride throughout the remainder of the game. The pigskin was rushed through the opponent's line for big gains and Barry, finding a hole through right tackle, carried the ball over for the first touchdown. Mauthe kicked the goal. Miller starred in this period by tearing off a thirty yard run in a broken field. Our team now used its full strength and was soon rewarded with another touchdown when King placed the ball over the line after a spectacular run. Tobin was substituted for Barry and the former in five consecutive line plunges carried the ball 37 yards for the third and final touchdown. Mauthe ended the scoring by kicking goal.

Few penalties were imposed during the game which was characterized throughout by rough playing.

Athletic Association Tickets for Faculty.

There have been quite a number of members of the faculty and corps of instructors requesting membership tickets in the Athletic Association, as provided by the constitution of the Association. These tickets can be secured at the office of the Graduate Manager, Room 121, Main Building. These will entitle the holder of the tickets to attend all the athletic contests given under the auspices of the Association. Dues are $6 per year.

ON TO PHILADELPHIA

Everybody Make a Final Effort to Attend the Big Game—At Least Six Hundred Men Should Accompany the Team.

The special train secured by Manager Orr for the Penn game will leave the Bellefonte Central station at 11:45 Friday morning. Since last year only four hundred students took the trip, this year when we have a much better chance of beating Penn on Franklin field, there should be at least six hundred fellows take advantage of cheering the Blue and White on to victory. The team will stay at the White Marsh Country Club, while headquarters in Philadelphia will be at the Normandie Hotel. Every man in college is backing the team for all that he is worth, and there can surely be no better way to show this spirit than by supporting the team on Franklin field. Let everyone make a final effort. The slogan is "On to Penn."

Reception to Foreign Students.

The Cosmopolitan Club held its annual reception to new members Friday evening Oct. 20th. This was one of the most successful and most interesting affairs in the history of the club.

Prof. Foster acted as toast master. New members responded to toasts and all expressed themselves as being the happier for the existence of the organization. A novel feature of the occasion was the national and folk songs of foreign countries. China, Norway, Turkey, Armenia, Porto Rico, Cuba, Russia and America joyfully compared "notes".

To help widen the sphere of our institution, the members not only intend to do active work themselves but men of wide reputation will be invited to lecture to the students at large. A helping hand in making these affairs a success will surely be well repaid and deeply appreciated by the Club.

WE WONDER.

If true Penn State spirit was displayed by the students at all stages of last Saturday's game.

If there will be another bonfire Saturday.

If we are not sorely in need of a few rousing good football songs.

Why a number of students left Beaver Field while the rest of us were singing our Alma Mater after the game Saturday.

If our Cadet Band did not make an excellent appearance on Sunday evening.

If, however, the applause of the audience should not be restricted to occasions other than a Sunday concert.

Alumni Visitors.

Among recent visitors to the college were: C. R. Stahl, '08; B. F. Bart, '10; P. K. Devers, '11; J. H. Mosser, ex-'11; A. C. Grazier, ex-'11.

The management of the "Pastime" announces the coming of the "World's Championship Baseball" pictures about Nov. 13. This feature in moving pictures is one of the greatest sporting events of the year and should be seen by everyone. No additional charge will be made to see this great sporting film. Wait for it.

HEAD COACH "BULL" McCLEARY

1910 Star Making Splendid Reputation as Coach—A True Penn State Man of Whom We May Well be Proud.

With the class of 1910 there entered Penn State a few of the best athletes that have ever worn the Blue and White during an athletic event. Among such men as Vorhis, Hermann, Hirschman and other famous backs, there is one man—Edward McCleary, whose ability as an all around athlete is eclipsed by none.

McCleary entered here from California Normal. He was captain of both football and baseball teams of that institution for two years, winning from such colleges as Washington and Jefferson, St. Vincent and West Virginia. As a freshman, McCleary proved to be a star at halfback on our team. It was his trusty foot that kicked a remarkable field goal in the Indian game, State winning four to nothing. Again this same year in the game with the University of Pittsburg, having only a few minutes to play, McCleary shattered the Pitt line by a series of attacks and finally crossed the goal with the only score of the game.

Because of Hirschman's injuries in the season of 1907, "Bull" one was called upon to do much of the heavy work on the offense. Powerful and aggressive, he was a human catapult in line breaking, in which respect he was probably as good as any other back in the game. As a reward for consistent work, McCleary was elected captain of Penn State's football team for 1908. Having a brilliant future before him in 1908, McCleary had the misfortune to have his foot broken early in the season. However, although he could not personally lead his team against Pitt, when the captain hobbled out along the side lines in his crippled condition there came into our team a mighty spirit and Pitt was swept off her feet.

The season of 1909 was of the best that Penn State has ever experienced in football. Throughout the whole season McCleary was one of the greatest of stars. He could always be depended upon to gain ground. His cool, steady, playing; his frank open honesty and his disposition have done much toward raising the standard of our athletics.

Besides being a great football player, McCleary has the distinction of being only the second man to captain two different athletic teams of Penn State. McCleary was captain of the football team in 1908 and baseball leader in 1910.

Last winter the appointment of Edward McCleary as Graduate Coach was significant of the fact that at last our directors of athletics appreciated the fact that his four year's work here would qualify him to develop Penn State varsity teams. Since then not only has his ability as a football coach been admired by all who came in contact with him, but his strong character and personality have also attracted every Penn State man. McCleary as baseball coach last spring turned out a very fast team and his work on our football prospects for this year has been superb.

Popular both among players and students at large as well, he has been one of the main factors in the great success which has attended our team thus far during the season.

Interclass Wrestling.

The interclass wrestling meet is to take place on Nov. 10 in the Armory, and this year the management has decided to charge ten cents admission. The meet will be held under intercollegiate rules, with seven weights, a fall scoring three points, and a decision two.

Both teams are training hard. With three men of last year's wrestlers on the mats, the Sophomores will have a strong team, though Manager Rishell deplores the lack of sufficient heavy men. The final trials for the 1914 team will be held on Nov. 6.

Many of the Freshman candidates are new at the game, but the squad is working, and is being well coached, and Manager Gleason is confident of turning out a winning team. During the past week, a number of new men have developed. Among these the most promising are Smith and France, 135 pounds; Bishop and Keller, 115 pounds. The freshmen appear strongest in the light weights.

Sergeant Allen Assists Captain Fry.

As was brought out in the military inspector's report in one of our previous issues, a competent military man was necessary to assist Captain Fry in taking charge of the very large body of cadets, especially in the field drills. Mr. Maurice C. Allen, Ordinance Dept. U. S. A., although it has not been in line of his duties, he having taken charge of all clerical matter pertaining to the military department, has this year voluntarily offered to assist the commandant in taking charge of the drills.

Nobody could have interpreted the inspector's report to have referred to Mr. Allen. Nevertheless we make this statement so as to eliminate all possibility of such an inference. Mr. Allen who has been with us for some time, has been esteemed by everyone, his duties have been most excellently taken care of, and now in addition to his former obligations he has assumed the position of assistant military field instructor.

PENN'S GREAT PROGRESS

Pennsylvania Showed Good Team Work Against Brown—Failed to Solve Brown's Forward Passes.

Pennsylvania has played her first big game and lost. This was due to but one cause and that was the inability of the Red and Blue team to solve Brown's forward passes. In every other respect, the Pennsylvania team was the equal of the fast Brown aggregation. Brown is undoubtedly very strong in the line while their backfield is the equal of any team's in the East. Penn's defeat does not therefore mean that they will prove easy prey for the colleges on their schedule from now on, for if Head Coach Smith can evolve some adequate defense against forward passes, this Pennsylvania eleven will be a very hard one to defeat.

Though outweighed 11 lbs. per man in the line, the Quaker forwards more than held their own so that even such remarkable backs as Sprackling, Crowther and Tenney were repeatedly held for short gains or thrown for losses. With the line showing such good form, and a backfield of the calibre of Mercer, Marshall, Harrington and Barr, some better football may be expected of them. Next Saturday's game is against State and here again they will meet a foe worthy to meet the best in the field. Penn's weakness so far has been in stopping the forward pass but this defect will be worked on all week and it will be dangerous for any of Penn's opponents to make this play their main reliance.

Jourdet, Penn's veteran end will be in the game Saturday and his presence will help materially especially against State whose ends have been noted for their efficiency for the past four years. It will take a very fine pair of ends to nullify the play that can be expected from Captain Very and his mate. All the rest of the team with the exception of Nolan are in good condition so that barring accidents, Penn should be considerably harder to beat on Saturday next than they were last Saturday. There is great interest in the State game here because of their defeat of Cornell and an immense crowd is expected.

Motive Power Club.

The first meeting this year of the Motive Power Club will be held in Room 20, Engineering Building, Friday, Oct. 27, at 7 p. m. After the matters relating to organization and plans have been taken up, Mr. C. H. Beck, '05, St. Louis representative of the Westinghouse Air Brake Co., will speak on the "Development of the Air Brake." All students in the Mechanical Engineering Course, interested in any phase of railroad or locomotive work are invited to the meeting and to join the club.

In Other Colleges.

Hamilton College has resumed cross country running this fall and it is expected that they will in all probability have a strong team in the field.

At the University of Ottawa the men outnumber the co-eds by only seventeen.

The College Library was represented at the Keystone State Library meeting at Sargertown, Pa. Dr. Runkle delivered an address before the Association, the sessions lasting from October 19 to 21.
