THURSDAY, NOV. 2, 1911

In order to prevent any misunderstanding which might arise from the article printed last week on Coach Reed, we wish to make it clear that he is Acting Chaplain of the college. He will fill the position left temporarily vacant by Dr. Gill, until such time as the Chaplain is again ready to resume his duties. Rumors that Dr. Gill has resigned his position are entirely at odds with the true condition of affairs, and we join with the entire college in wishing our beloved chaplain a speedy and pleasant recovery.

Upperclassmen Act—The action of the two upper classes, working in conjunction with the student council, in placing a restriction on the wholesale damage of town property which took place as a result of the bonfire after the victory over Cornell, will undoubtedly help prevent further friction and hard feeling between the people of the town and the student body. The extent of the disturbance reached such proportions that the concerted action of the upperclassmen was necessary to avert the borough council from taking drastic measures in order to insure future safety for town property. After a meeting of a committee from the student council and the town council, a definite agreement was reached whereby all damage done would be made good and on such occasions in the future provisions would be made so that the citizens would not be the losers.

In the past, when celebration of victory took place, and the town property was destroyed, disputes continually arose, between students and citizens. The rights of the citizens were encroached upon and consequently a number of the students believed the business men grew antagonistic in order to make amends for the damage done. Now that peace has been restored and both sides have reached an amicable agreement, friendly relations should be continued between those parties concerned. Each student should work toward this end, and for the good of the college and for his own benefit the motions passed by the two upper classes in mass meeting should be carried out and rigidly enforced.

Congratulations, 1614, for the work on Monday's bonfire. The work of gathering material and building the pile was well done.

Saturday's Games.

The entire Penn State football squad will be occupied on Saturday afternoon, when the Varsity plays St. Bonaventure, and the Reserves play Bellefonte Academy. The Varsity has been given a complete rest since the Penn game, as no practice has taken place since Saturday. This afternoon, however, the men will line up again in order to loosen out the kinks for Saturday, although an easy game is expected. The rest has done the men a great deal of good, and has made them feel capable of more hard work before the Navy game. The game with St. Bonaventure will begin at 3 o'clock, and the Reserve game at 2 o'clock.

Pittsburg Alumni Smoker Postponed.

It has been deemed advisable to postpone the Smoker to be held by the Pittsburg Alumni, from October 28 to November 4. As previously announced, the affair will take place at the University Club. A large crowd is expected owing to the fact that the Thanksgiving game is so near at hand and an interesting schedule of events has been promised for the evening.

COACH HARRY WEAVER

Weaver Has Been of Great Assistance to Coaches.

As a member of the coaching staff of Penn State, Harry Weaver, '12, has given much aid to Head Coach McCleary, and Advisory Coach Hollenback. Weaver played four years on varsity football for the Blue and White. He began the season of 1907 as a centre, but in 1908 he was shifted to the position of right tackle. At this position Weaver played brilliantly for three years. Aided by a thorough knowledge of the game, he could be counted on for at least one blocked kick and the recovery of the same. Penn State had at this part of the football history two wonderful tackles in Weaver and "Dick" Smith. This pair of fast linesmen was noted for their aggressiveness and ability for fierce tackling.

As Weaver played during his first year in the preparatory department, his services on the varsity are missed this, his senior year in college, Devoting his time to the line. Weaver has undoubtedly helped greatly in the development of the wonderful defense that our team has shown in recent games.
