Football With the present issue the football material which has formed so large a part of our material this fall will give up its place to other athletics at Penn State. As a final word, we cannot say too much in commendation of the group of men who have done so much for the college this fall. As a means of advertisement, as an interesting and exciting sport, and above all, as a powerful factor in the preservation and development of college spirit no form of athletics is so potent as football; and the team this year has fulfilled all its functions in a way that has never been surpassed by a Penn State team. To the varsity team, then, to its coaches and management, and to the scrub players, we extend the thanks and gratitude of every man in college. We can ask little more for future seasons than that they equal the record set by our 1911 team.

The Hockey Question.

The following communication has been received:
Editor Penn State Collegian,
State College, Pa.

Dear Sir:

The writer noted with interest the communication published in the December 7th issue of your paper and headed "A Plea for Hockey."

There are just two reasons why the writer believes Penn State is not ready for Hockey, viz:

1. No adequate place to play the game.
2. Lack of money to finance the sport.

The suggestion that the tennis courts be flooded is not a practical one as many State men who were in college about 1906-08 will testify. The "stunt" was tried at that time on Old Beaver Field at considerable cost and failed absolutely. We must have a permanent body of water or pool for Hockey.

Again, the sport will not finance itself. Why? For the same reasons, barring wrestling, that all other sports do not finance themselves. Without our student assessment, what would we do with the four major sports—football, basketball, track and baseball. It is a big struggle to make ends meet with the student assessment. Wrestling is self-supporting because it is vastly interesting, being a battle of skill and muscle against the same. It is next to the battle of the ring and everybody likes a prize fight.

Did tennis finance itself last year? Your paper published an article last spring headed "Tennis a Success." Apparently the writer of that article forgot to consult the Tennis manager and a few others before writing the article, drawing his conclusions from the results of the matches only.

The writer believes that tennis can be made to finance itself but it will take some hustling on the part of the management and a great deal more interest displayed by the students than that displayed last year. Why not be content with basketball and wrestling as winter sports for the present, in the spring help to put 'ennis on its feet and then take up hockey, soccer, la crosse, etc., after the field has been carefully investigated and the success of each is partially assured at least.

Because our 1911 football team closed the season with no defeats, we must not imagine that the next thing to do is to launch a team in every branch of sports. Penn State is growing in size and importance each year. Last year our wrestling team "cleaned up" everything. This year's football team almost duplicated the feat. Now then, how about basketball, track and tennis? When we get these sports, especially track, which is probably the first sport known to the colleges, on the same level with football and wrestling we can afford to turn our surplus money and energies to other branches.

The writer does not wish to discourage the idea of Penn State meeting her rivals in other branches of sport but he does feel that these teams should be sent forth only after much careful investigation and a whole lot of serious thought has been given to each.

Very respectfully yours,
P. Edwin Thomas,
Ex-Graduate Manager.

We Wonder.

Whether it would not be an excellent plan to hold class banquets at Pittsburg every Thanksgiving.

How soon we shall have another so successful a football season.

If the football schedule for next year will provide for as many important games as the one of this year did.

How we could properly and most fittingly reward our scrubs.

If there could have been a more pleasing affair than the first Senior Cotillion of this year.

If, also, the 1912 men had not better get busy immediately to obtain partners for the next dance of the series.

If we are going to support our basketball and wrestling teams as loyally as we have supported the football team.

If it is not extremely necessary to have a large number of wrestling candidates this season in order to maintain our reputation established last year.

Why the Freshmen do not attend the Wednesday morning mass-meetings in larger numbers.

If the galleries should not be filled, or nearly so, at these meetings.

If the committee on football returns does not deserve a considerable amount of praise.

If a Penn State gathering was any where ever more generously entertained than it was at the Fort Pitt Hotel during Thanksgiving vacation.

Athletic Nominations.

At a meeting of the Athletic association held last Tuesday evening, the following men were nominated for the office of assistant football managers:—W. F. Entekin, Jr., Neil Fleming, G. R. Gage, J. W. Harman, Derl Hess, L. P. Lindsay, W. A. Noll, and A. M. Underhill.

The election will be held Tuesday evening, Dec. 19, from 6 to 8 in the Old Chapel. From the above list three men are to be elected.

Mr. and Mrs. James I. Thompson royally entertained the varsity football team at their home at Centre Furnace on Thursday evening, Dec. 7th. The bounteous turkey dinner was greatly enjoyed by the members of the team and by other invited guests, who included members of the faculty.

Professor Agee acted as toastmaster, and toasts were responded to by Dr. Sparks, Dean Hunt, Coach "Bob" Reed, Captain Very, and Mr. Foster, of De Moines, Iowa. The event was greatly enjoyed by all who were present, and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were given a hearty vote of thanks for their generous hospitality.

Penn State has had another evidence of the close relations existing between the public schools of the state and the college. The new School Code provides for a state expert assistant in agricultural education and another in industrial education. Dr. Schaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has appointed to the first position Mr. L. H. Dennis, a member of the class of 1912, and to the second position, Mr. M. B. King, of the class of 1908, now a teacher of Manual Training in the Radnor Township High School, at Wayne, Pennsylvania.
