Loyal Alumni Within the last few weeks letters from alumni in the western part of Pennsylvania have been sent to the editors of Pittsburgh papers requesting that Penn State be given a "square deal". The accounts of wrestling meets, basketball games, and various other Penn State activities, having been sent in by local reporters, are ignored by the sporting editors. The question why credit is not given us is answered by the alumni simply because of the fact that not enough active interest is shown by the readers. And yet there are between four and five hundred alumni in Western Pennsylvania. Is it not time that every friend and alumnus of Penn State, together with those in charge of such affairs at the college, get busy, individually and collectively, and let the Pittsburgh editors know that our college is entitled to a "square deal"?

Better Lights Numerous complaints have been heard from time to time in regard to the lighting system of the Carnegie Library, especially in the alcoves and side reference rooms. In these rooms the light is entirely inadequate for work at night, and much inconvenience is caused men who have reference work to do in the the library. In many courses in college a great deal of outside reading and report writing is necessary, and it is only fair to the men doing such work that they be able to use the library at the times most convenient for them. If work is done at night, there should be no hindrance because of the lack of proper light; and it seems just, therefore, that steps be taken to provide better lighting facilities in the alcoves and reference rooms.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Jacob Riis will give an illustrated free lecture on Saturday night in the Auditorium at eight o'clock. Mr. Riis will also be the Chapel speaker on Sunday morning.

The Student's Summer Conference will be held at Eagles Mere this year instead of Pocono Pines. The dates are June fourteenth to twenty-third.

Great credit is due the Christian Association for bringing to us such outstanding men and women as Jane Adams, Jacob Riis, William T. Ellis, Helen Barrett Montgomery and Doctor Holmes. The proceeds of the Y. M. C. A. show always are used for this purpose, but this amount has to be supplemented substantially from the Association Treasury. It is a privilege to hear and know these people, and those who support the Y. M. C. A. show not only have a personal pleasure, but also help in this community benefit.

Hampton Day was celebrated at Yale University last Thursday. Woollosly, their largest Auditorium, capable of seating 3300 people was crowded, with five hundred standing through the entire services of an hour and three-quarters. Major Moton, Booker T. Washington, and the Hampton Quartette were present. The fellows gave a substantial collection for the work at Hampton.

The Freshman Bible Class from now on will be held at ten o'clock and continue until 10.45, giving the men an intermission of fifteen minutes, between the Freshman Bible Class and the regular chapel service.

The Mandolin Club will play several selections before the biographer of Theodore Roosevelt, Jacob Riis, delivers his illustrated free lecture, on Saturday night,

Interclass Basketball.

The season of interclass basketball is nearly over and the present standing of the teams finds the sophomores heading the league with the juniors second, the seniors third, and the freshmen fourth. A summary follows.

	Won	Lost	Pct.
1914	5	2	.714
1913	5	3	.625
1912	4	3	.571
1915	1	7	.125

Three more games remain to be played; the seniors and sophomores each have two, the juniors and freshmen one game apiece. Unless the sophomores succeed in defeating both the junior and senior teams, in all probabilities, there will be a tie for first place between either the seniors and sophomores or juniors and sophomores, providing the 1912 men win their two remaining games and 1913 wins its only one still to be played.

The games between the sophomores and seniors and sophomores and juniors have always been of the most exciting kind and were won by a very few points, it being necessary in several games to play extra periods to decide to whom victory belonged. The three remaining games are bound to be very interesting and thrilling, for the sophomores must battle with two teams of equal chances to tie with them for the championship. The teams have worked very hard to reach this critical point. Show your spirit by attending these games.

See the "Thespians" one week from tomorrow night.

Baseball Season.

Baseball season is now less than three week away. The Blue and White team will play the first game with the University of South Carolina at Columbia, S. C., April 3. Coach Walter Manning, formerly with the New York Americans, took active charge of baseball affairs last Saturday. At different hours of the day the pitchers and prospective members of the team are given a work out. Until the team can get outside, practices are held in the Armory. H. H. Haverstick Penn State, '07, varsity pitcher for four years, will also aid in developing battery material during the next two weeks.

Better than ever before, "Thespians."
