SUSSCRIPTION.
THURSDAY, MAY 16, 1912
An Expla- The editorial in last nation. week's "Collegian" toward the recent Athletic Association proceedings regarding the Basketball Amendments was based on insufficient advertising of the same.
In justification of the officers of the Association, this matter was properly announced and thoroughly discussed at a Mass Meeting before the Easter vacation. Here it was the sentiment of those present that Basketball become a Minor Sport
It therefore seemed only necessary to act upon this question officially to make it constitutional and this was done Wednesday morning, May 1. This explains the lack of previous notice in regards to this matter.
The object of our editorial was not to criticise regular proceedings of the Athletic Association. The idea was not that the basketbal question had not been settled according to the Constitution, being, as it was, unanimously decided by nine hundred students. Our point was simply to suggest in the future, taking the proceedings in question as an example, that when important matters arise, even though they be discussed previous to the voting on of the same and practically decided, that a few days notice would give time for every man in College to decide and make it a point to be at that particular meeting even though he could not attend all mass meet ings.
Penn State A better example of Spirit. true Penn State spirit than that which prevailed at last Saturday's game, when Notre Dame defeated us, could not have existed anywhere. The cheering was never as good at past baseball games-probably due to the fact that the cheer leader had assistance.
Throughout the whole game, the courtesy of the stands was plainly evident. Good baseball, whether exhibited by Notre Dame or Penn State was applauded with like vigor, and costly errors were regarded as unavoidable. Even after the visitors had shattered almost all of our hopes for victory, our Alma Mater was sung with as much spirit as if we were winning instead of being defeated. Such College spirit of team and student body was shown there as would befit any college, and as any college would be proud to have-it was true Penn State spirit, and we can feel proud of ourselves.
