opened with greetings by Dean Jackson and Professor Kinsloe.

The convention discussed principally, dispatching by telephone; the preservation of mine timber, and wireless telegraphy for railroad purposes.

Mr. J. J. Johnson, General Superintendent of Telegraphs of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, presided, and prominent representatives from all parts of the system east of the Alleghen Mountains were present. The special train carrying the guests left here about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The railway dispatchers are much interested in wireless telegraphy as a possible instrument whereby communications can be maintained between stations in case of the breakdown of the ordinary methods of communications, and examined the College wireless equipment with care.

Football Prospects for 1912.

The results accomplished through the inauguration of spring football practice at Penn State have been extremely gratifying. It has given the new men an opportunity to gain confidence and to become acquainted with the system and style of play in use here. Among those who have showed up well in practice are Shupe, Welty, McVean and Buczko.

Prospects for the football season of 1912 appear very bright at the present writing. With but four men gone from last year's championship eleven, it looks as if we shall have another championship team this year. The backfield positions made vacant by Barry, King and Barrett leaving college will be filled by Barron and Berryman. From present indications, Lamb will make a strong bid for the position of tackle left vacant by the graduation of Harlow.

Dean Jackson Interested in Alumni.

During Dean Jackson's recent trip, he attended, with Mr. R. H. Smith, the Section Alumni meeting at Scranton; a meeting of another section just forming at Buffalo, and the convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at Schenectady, where he spoke at the convention dinner upon the responsibility of engineering organizations for the public welfare. He also attended the notable banquet and conference at the University Club in New York of the ex-presidents, managers, and a few others of the organization named above who were gathered together upon the invitation of the President, Gano Dunn.

The "Deutscher Verein."

During the past college year probably no society has met with greater success than the "Deutscher Verein." This is chiefly due to the active interest shown by the individual members. The play produced by the "Verein" this year was so well received that a more elaborate production is being planned for next year.

All students who have talent along the dramatical line, and are conversant with German, are solicited to join the "Verein," and to go out for the play.

Mr. Garver in Science.

Madison M. Garver recently read an important paper before the Canadian Royal Society. During the past couple of years Professor Garver has presented to the scientific world some results of his researches, which are of extraordinary value and are attracting world-wide attention. He is setting forth, in an apparently unassailable manner, important scientific facts which evidently are leading to a new advance along certain lines of science.

GOING INTO BUSINESS?

Then investigate EASTMAN before you decide on your college. Consider what it will mean to you to begin business "full panoplied" as Minerva sprang from the head of Jove—equipped BEFOREHAND with what most college men and women have to learn after graduating through a long, painful, poorly paid or costly apprenticeship.

EASTMAN teaches all that is essential to training for business—during college life, a wholesome, energizing experience, affording, time and money considered, just as much of all the cultural activities—physical, intellectual, and social—while you are in college, and very much more after you are through.

For EASTMAN graduates are ready for work and are not obliged to hunt aimlessly for "something to do." Positions are offered them promptly, and they earn higher salaries at the start and advance faster up because they KNOW BUSINESS before they begin. The prospectus of the school will tell you what is taught—and how.

Write to-day for interesting and inspiring publication. "There are many business schools but only one EASTMAN."
