WEDNESDAY, NOV. 13, 1912

Since the student Pennsylvania body has found a Day Next few minutes to discuss other things than the recent wonderful victory over Pennsylvania, all eyes are now being gradually turned toward Pennsylvania Day, November 22.

Pennsylvania Day has become a notable event in the calendar of Penn State. A fact that will be even eclipsed this year because of the number of prominent officials of our state and the many other distinguished visitors that will be here.

We, the student body, are in a position to aid our Alma Mater in two ways. From now until our next holiday, every effort can be made to help getting our grounds and campus in condition, paths across the campus can for once be abandoned, and every effort made in preparation for the parade and toward entertaining our guests. The second way in which our efforts will tell, is to show the very brightest side of Penn State after the guests arrive. The coming parade will be a novel event and deserves the support of all, since it is a student proposition. Then the very best impression that the Governor of Pennsylvania can get of our true spirit is to see the Auditorium crowded to the doors on the morning of the twentyfifth. Do we realize that Penn State has done a wonderful lot for each one of us? If a few do not realize it now, let us take the views of our alumni. We owe it to our Alma Mater to make a good showing this fall and particularly at the celebration of Pennsylvania Day.

The Penn State Collegian announces with pleasure the addition of W. H. Savery '14 and E. B. Moyer '14 to the business staff of the paper.

During the past few weeks the Penn State Collegian sent out a series of letters to prominent politicians and to men situated in lucrative administrative positions. The object of these communications was to obtain numerous and diverse opinions in regard to allowing the college men to vote in his respective college town, by means of some government regulation. The plan proposed in the letters sent out was as follows: To allow each college man of age to vote in his respective college, only for positions relative to county offices and higher and such a vote to be recorded in his home district or his place of residence.

Owing to the extreme burdens resting upon executive men during the present time comparatively few satisfactory replies were received. But as the matter has received considerable attention, especially in Progressive Circles, it looks as though this question were going to be an issue in the near future. If the matter is carefully thought over and weighed, it seems no more than just that a college man living in a city or town for a period of four years should be allowed to vote.

Election is over with, it may therefore not be proper to take up any more space in such discussion, it may nevertheless be opportune to bring this again before the eyes of the college man, so that we may use his influence in the future.

William Draper Lewis, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, in writing to this publication says:—"My instinct is that it should be made as easy as possible for every man to vote and that students are no exception to this rule".

It is the custom for A Custom. all members of one class to remain seated after chapel exercises until the class next higher has passed out of their seats. Many times this year seniors have been last to leave the Auditorium.

The "Collegian" contest for two free trips to Pittsburgh, at Thanksgiving, will close Monday, November 25, at 8:00 p. m. The conditions of the contest are that the two students, who secure the highest number of coupons, will receive transportation to and from Pittsburgh and tickets to the game. Each new subscription paid during the contest will count 20 votes. Coupons should be placed in a sealed envelope and left at the Toggery Shop. Subscriptions can be paid at the Toggery Shop Thursday and Friday evenings from 6 until 8 o'clock. Remember a friend of yours may need your coupon. This is the last of a series of two coupons.

Our Alumni Are Aroused. The following letter is a duplicate of a letter that was sent to one of the papers which so grossly misrepresented our athletic standing following the Cornell-Penn State game. The mentioned clipping was reprinted in the "Collegian".

Dear Sir: Attached is a clipping which it is reported came from your paper. If this is true, I wish to state that the writer is either very ignorant or a prize liar. Anyone who has ever been at Penn State, either for one day or four years, could very quickly tell that this statement is entirely devoid of facts. The writer has been a student both at a small college, namely, Penn State, and also at one of the largest Universities in the East.

If the men at the latter institution were required to maintain as high standards and meet as strict requirements as the men at Penn State, there would be very few players on the University team.

It is indeed surprising that a paper of your class should permit the publication of such absurd untruths. I should greatly appreciate it if you would give me the name of the author so that I can call on him the next time I am in that vicinity.

Very truly yours,
 E. W. Nick, '07.

The above letter certainly shows the right spirit in our fight for fair press representation. Mr. Nick who graduated in 1907, has since risen to a position with the General Electric Company, and has made such a record for himself that he now holds a position of large importance.

Rifle Club Organizes. The first meeting of the College Rifle Club, which holds a membership in the National Rifle Association, was held Tuesday, November 5.

Over one hundred and twenty-five students were present and signified their intentions of taking up target shooting at the club range. All students are eligible to membership in the club and it is earnestly desired that a large number of the students enroll in the roster of the club.

Guns, ammunition and targets are furnished free of charge by the United States Government to all club members.

Several prize contests will be held during the year and it is expected that the College Club will place a team in the Intercollegiate Match which is held annually under the auspices of the National Rifle Association.

Meetings of the club will be held once a month and all members are requested to be on hand at all meetings.

The following officers were elected: President, Albert Lea Solleder; Vice President, Chas. Faddis; Secretary, R. A. Lone; Treasurer, Walter Boyce.

The new chapel seating will go into effect November 17.

The college has lost a valuable set of lantern slides. The President would appreciate any information concerning the slides.
