Penn State Refused Admission.

Penn State has made three applications for admission to the Intercollegiate Wrestling Association and has three times been refused.

For the benefit of some who may not know what this Association is a few statements are timely. The members of the Association at present are Columbia, Lehigh, Princeton, Penn and Cornell. Yale, Dartmouth, Brown and other prominent colleges maintain intercollegiate wrestling teams but are not members of the Association.

The only activity of the I. W. A. consists of an annual two day tournament to decide the championship. Contrary to popular belief the dual meets between members of the Association are not part of the requirements of membership.

The management of affairs of the Association is in the hands of student managers of the teams.

Penn State's first two applications were refused on the ground of lax eligibility rules and low scholastic requirements, despite Pop Golden's efforts to disprove. At the meeting of the Association held in New York City on October 19th, Graduate Manager Smith made another effort to correct the false impressions of the present members. The members of the Association were shown that the amount and character of work required for admission to courses leading to the degree of B. S. and B. A. in Penn State is almost identical with that required at the institutions represented in the wrestling association. The rigid scholastic requirements of athletes in our college were fully explained.

Our eligibility rules were explained in detail and as compared with Cornell, Princeton and Penn the only difference of importance was the three year or freshman rule which rule Penn State does not have nor does Columbia. Our information on this point with regard to Lehigh is not definite.

After matters of scholastic standing and eligibility rules were explained apparently to the satisfaction of all the members there remained a feeling that Penn State's ethics of sportsmanship were not up to the standard. Mr. E. P. Kilroe, graduate director of wrestling at Columbia tried to show the absurdity of any such belief and testified to the good treatment received by Columbia at our college.

Mr. Kilroe proposed that Penn State be accepted in the Association for a year and the members could then settle the question for themselves by contact with our institution. Mr. Kilroe further stated that he could see no difference between meeting Penn State in dual meets and in intercollegiates.

After Graduate Manager Smith's withdrawal from the room a vote was taken on Mr. Kilroe's proposition.

Two votes were cast for Penn State, one against and Lehigh and Princeton withheld votes for further instructions from their Associations.

On the final vote taken by mail one week later the count stood two for and three against, thereby rejecting our application—three votes in favor being necessary for admission. On the mail vote Lehigh voted for us according to a letter received by Manager Jarrett. One of the original votes in our favor had been reversed on the mail vote.

Pullman Trains.

As was done last commencement, special Pullman trains will be run from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to State College today. The otherwise very tiresome journey is partly eliminated by these arrangements with the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Wrestling Outlook.

Possibly never in the history of our college has Penn State had better prospects of a championship wrestling team. Of the powerful team of last year but two are lost, namely, former Captain Lesh and William Park. Captain Shollenberger, Very, Lamb, Fulkman, Karcher, Callender and Jones remain of last year's varsity team together with a wealth of candidates who, from present indications, will give some of our regulars the hardest kind of a fight to hold their varsity berths.

In the 115 pound class Jones on account of his varsity experience has an advantage, but from the work of Miller and Williams, in their recent interclass bout, one may safely say that these two are distinctly in the running.

Callender, in the 125 pound class is a man whose work on the varsity stamps him as a man hard to beat. However he will not be without rivals Kirk in the interclass match showed class that cannot be overlooked and the fact that the choice between Kirk and Keller for that weight was extremely hard to make bespeaks of lively competition for that event. Mendenhall and Bennett will also prove strong competitors for that weight.

The struggle between Karcher and Fulkman, both varsity men for the 135 pound class will be a royal one. Last year it was almost an even break with Fulkman a slight favorite. This year it will doubtless be as keen. Both are first raters. This class, with Frantz and Goetz, also as competitors should be one of the most bitterly contended.

In the 145 pound class, Captain Shollenberger stands in a rank by himself. The undefeated captain will experience strong competition nevertheless. Hill, Grumbling, and
