

There's no way to describe the lively, smart styles of these new overcoats so that you'll get a really good idea of them. Even the best illustrations don't do the clothes full justice. You've simply got to see the goods if you want to "get a line" on them.

The Sim Store

has produced the best overcoat styles this season you have ever seen; unless you have a look at them you'll miss the smartest lot of stuff in the market; and we're sure you don't want to do that.

You can find plenty of good looking clothes everywhere; but there's more than looks in these. There's quality in them; fine fabrics, fine tailoring, fine finish. They're the clothes you want.

New styles for young men; new belt-back models; new colors and weaves.

DR. BUCKHOUT DEAD.

Oldest Member of Faculty Passed Away in His Home.

It is with the keenest regret that we are obliged to announce to our readers the demise of Dr. William A. Buckhout, one of the oldest and most esteemed men of the Penn State faculty. Dr. Buckhout had not been feeling well since Thanksgiving Day, but his family did not think that his indisposition was especially serious. On Tuesday morning Dr. Buckhout was seized with an attack of heart failure which resulted in his death.

Professor Buckhout was born at Oswego, N. Y., on December 26, 1846. He prepared at the high school there, and then entered Penn State. He was graduated from this institution in 1868. He was nominated as an instructor of Natural Science in 1871. Dr. Buckhout was a member of the State Forestry Commission in 1888, and he was also a Fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Buckhout received his B. S. degree in 1872, and his Dr. Sc. at Penn State in 1904.

Professor Buckhout has been active as a faculty member in this college for a period of 46 years. During this time he has been connected with various departments of this college, and everything that he undertook proved a success under his most wise guidance. There was probably no man in this institution who was more beloved and more esteemed than Dr. Buckhout. Not alone was he thought so much of for his learning and his keen interest in the college, but his mild gentle disposition, and his extreme modesty won him the hearts of all that came in contact with him.

This paper speaking for the college extends to the family of the deceased, its most heartfelt condolences. The death of this most valuable friend of the college will be a shock to all alumni, faculty and the students. He has been a long and faithful worker along lines of research and along lines of developing manhood, and with the poet Norton we may say:
Weep not for him that dieth,
For he hath ceased from tears,
And a voice to his replieth,
Which he hath not heard for years.

Letter of Condolence.

Whereas God in his infinite wisdom has seen fit to call from this earth the father of our classmate, George Belchic, be it resolved, that we, the class of 1914 of The Pennsylvania State College, extend our sincere sympathy to our classmate and his relatives in their bereavement.

And furthermore, be it resolved that this resolution be entered upon the minutes of the class and published in the Penn State Collegian.

And furthermore, be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Committee. C. Edward Lyon, Clarence D. Gibbs and Paul P. Suiter.

Wright Memorial Hall, the finest building on the Yale campus, was formally dedicated Saturday.
