Wednesday, October 22, 1913

No one who saw The 1913 last Saturday's football Eleven game in Washington, can have anything but admiration for the splendid courage with which the Penn State eleven fought against odds. No one wishes to attempt to rob our opponents of the glory of a game justly won, but it must be realized that the Blue and White were no mean opponents.

Playing against a veteran team in its very stronghold, the new varsity showed its ability to gain both through the line and around the ends. It is true that our offense was frequently broken up before a play had fairly started; nevertheless the ability, the power is there, it has been shown, and, when backed by spirit and courage such as was seen on College Field last Saturday, that ability and power cannot fail to come to the surface and remain there as a permanent factor in the make-up of the 1913 eleven.

Penn State spirit is by no means lessened by a defeat, and no one need be apprehensive as to college loyalty. Penn State men are more than ever "behind the team", and are confident of its ultimate success. The dauntless courage and personal prowess of the individual players is of that calibre which cannot fail to be developed by our great coaching staff into a smooth and irresistible combination.

Soccer Trials.

All Varsity candidates for the soccer team will be excused from drill Wednesday afternoon in order that they may compete in the try-outs that will be held that afternoon at 4 p. m. on New Beaver Field.

Twenty-two men will be picked as a result of these trials eleven from each of the two lower classes. Men chosen will be excused from further drill this semester. All candidates report promptly.

A Correction.

The date of the freshman-sophomore lacrosse game as announced in last week's issue of the Collegian has been changed. As yet no definite date has been decided upon but will be announced in the near future.

NEW BASKET-BALL LEAGUE

Penn State in Western Division With W. and J. and Pitt—Four Games to be Played.

Manager Flagg has just returned from a meeting of the newly formed Pennsylvania State League held in Philadelphia. As this was the first meeting, schedules were made out and the general arrangements in regards to officials, etc. were discussed and taken care of.

This league is the outcome of a long prevailing idea held by followers of inter-collegiate basketball for promoting the interests of that sport. As there are quite a number of smaller colleges in Pennsylvania putting out basketball teams it was necessary to classify and group ten of the leading colleges and subdivide them into three main divisions. These three divisions are called Eastern, Western and Central, the first two containing three teams each and the third containing four. In the Eastern division Swarthmore, F. and M. and Lehigh appear, in the Western division are Pittsburgh, W. and J. and Penn State, while the Central division comprises Bucknell, Albright, Gettysburg and Susquehanna.

The schedules call for at least two games with other teams of the same division, one at home and the other away. When the winners of the divisions are picked they will in turn play a series of games with each other and the winner of these will be termed the basketball champions of Pennsylvania. As it is now we play two league games at home, one with Pittsburgh and the other with W. and J. and take two league trips to both Pitt and W. and J. According to schedules the division games will be over by March 6, 1914, and immediately afterward the inter-division games will start.

This seems a very good system for a league of its size and without a doubt it will prove to be quite popular. It will enable critics and at least the press, to tell where the various teams stand in comparison with other like teams. It will bring the associations of all the colleges in closer contact with each other and when the Athletic Association consists of nothing but students we find that it will bring them together also. All in all it will increase the interest in college basketball and tend to raise the standard of the game throughout the state.

The officials at these games are to be picked from a list put out by the Intercollegiate Basketball Association and thereby their standard should be exceptionally high. Mr. Roth, physical director at Swarthmore, was elected temporary chairman and Ray H. Smith, secretary.

This schedule in no ways effects that of the former local schedule and the same number of home games will be played as in other years. It will create more interest here in basketball circles than can be imagined. At present our outlook is fairly bright. With such men as Captain Binder, Park, Wilson, Metzgar and Walton back in college we have a fairly strong nucleus around which to build a very strong team. Therefore we hope that this year will be a banner year for old Penn State in the new Pennsylvania League.

Some of the new students seem to be having trouble in distinguishing the difference between the La Vie Box at the corner of the Engineering Building from an official U. S. Mail Box. Letters "for home" are found there daily.

New men should remember that letters thus deposited are not liable to reach their destination quite so quickly as if they were dropped in the box at the Co-op.
