

ELEVEN'S FINAL GAME.

Hard Game Looked For When Old Rivals Meet on Thanksgiving Day in the Last Game of the Season.

When the Blue and White lines up against the Blue and Gold in the final scene of the local football drama of the present year, there will no doubt be staged one of the most bitterly fought contests that has ever been played between these two great rivals of two decades' standing. Neither team has a record that is unmarred by defeat, although by comparative scores Pitt appears to have the advantage for the season. Pitt has lost less games but her schedule does not seem to be as hard as that of the Blue and White. Furthermore, Pitt has not shown the power in her last few games that she did in her early season games, while the work of the local eleven has shown steady improvement throughout the season. Pitt started out by holding Navy to a tie score and then defeated the Indians and Cornell in succession, but lost to Bucknell, a team that was next beaten by the Navy by an overwhelming score. Lastly, Pitt lost to W. & J., having three touchdowns scored against her.

Washington and Jefferson also handed Penn State the first jolt of a somewhat jolty season, but she could only cross the Blue and White goal line twice. Following this bad start the Penn State eleven dropped four games in a row to Harvard, Pennsylvania, Notre Dame and Navy, respectively. The last three games were all closely contested and the breaks of the game in every instance paved the way to a great extent to Penn State's defeat. Penn State's advance in power has not been checked in the least since the last game, but on the other hand, the coaches themselves admit that the team has developed faster during the last ten days than at any other period of the season. What this dope and these comparative scores show is only problematical. Either team may win, but in any event the struggle will be a great one, and all the glory is certainly not going to belong to the winner alone.

Several Blue and White warriors will don their war togs to do battle on the gridiron for their Alma Mater for the last time. Chief among these is Captain Shorty Miller, and his work together with that of Captain Wagner, the wonderful end of the Pitt team, will be one of the features that will call attention. Besides the midget Captain, center Clark and guards Bebout and Sayre will play their last game, as will also Vogel and McVean, two other linemen who have done faithful service for Penn State. It goes without saying that these men will play the game of their lives in an effort to end this season and their playing days in the glory of victory rather than in the gloom of defeat.

The Penn State lineup will probably be: ends, Barron and Morris; tackles, Lamb, McDowell, and McVean; guards, Bebout and Sayre; center, J. Clark; quarterback, Captain Miller; halfbacks, Berryman, Welty, and Yergger; fullback, H. Clark and Tobin.

The scores of the Penn State-Pitt games follow:

	Penn State	Pitt
1893	32	0
1896	10	4
1900	12	0
1901	27	0
1902	27	0
1903	59	0
1904	55	22
1905	6	0
1906	6	0
1907	0	6
1908	12	6
1909	5	0
1910	0	10

O. F. Cutts' Visit

The news of the coming of Oliver F. Cutts, of Harvard, was spread broadcast last week, and this fact, as well as the remembrance of past visits, assured him a hearty welcome and large audiences to listen to his talks, which were given at chapel services and on Sunday evening.

The moral value of Mr. Cutts' addresses was evident and facts were presented in an interesting, masterful way. Mr. Cutts is a man of great athletic experience, and he is a firm believer in the moral benefit of such physical training.

That Penn State men occupy a warm place in his heart is shown by the following letter written to Mr. Buchman previous to coming here: "Has it perchance occurred to you that you are inviting me to come to Penn State on the date of the Harvard-Yale game? How much consideration does that show, anyway? However, I am going to call your bluff just to show my sportsmanship and turn over my Harvard-Yale game tickets to a friend. I was very glad Penn State was given the date left open by the withdrawal of Norwich, and I hope the game will be continued next year."

State Education Association.

The State Education Association will meet in Pittsburgh on December 30, 31, and January 1. Dr. S. E. Weber, Dean of the School of Liberal Arts, will present a paper, before the department of College and University professors of education on "The Present Status of Teachers' Training Courses of the Colleges and Universities of State".

Dr. P. O. Ray, head of the Department of History and Political Science, will read a paper before the college and normal school section on "Recent Changes in College and University Courses of the Study".

Faculty Meeting.

At a general faculty meeting held last Friday evening, one of the chief topics was that of re-organization along committee lines, action on which has been pending since the last meeting. A committee on religious organization was adopted which will supervise and co-ordinate various college religious activities. The proposed committees on absences and on physical activities have not yet been adopted, and the work of the latter named committee will be carried on, in part at least, by the established committee on athletics.

All freshmen desiring to compete for the position of class historian should hand in manuscripts to the 1915 La Vie board before December 10.

VARSITY WRESTLING

Preliminary Season to Start Next Week.

The preliminary work of the varsity wrestling season will start next week when members from the various classes will begin to get into shape for the All Interclass Championship meet which will be held just before the Xmas recess begins. This meet proved to be popular last year and served its purpose in giving the new men, especially, a chance to get additional experience before the regular training season starts following Xmas vacation.

The meet was won by the seniors, 1913, last year by a big margin. From indications no class will have an easy time winning this year, material being especially plentiful in the three upper classes, while the freshmen, having the largest number from which to draw, need only to get awake to their opportunities to do something for themselves, their class and the college, to produce a strong combination.

Material for this year's varsity is quite plentiful. As to how well it can be developed, remains to be seen. It is hard to replace such men as Captain Shollenberger, Very and Fulkman, but their very loss ought to make competition more keen and in this fact alone the wrestling authorities pin their faith on the ability of the Blue and White to produce another winning combination. There remains as a nucleus from last year's S. W. T. men, Captain Jones, who will in all probability wrestle in the 125 pound class this year, Sayre in the 175 pound class, and heavyweight Lamb. Together with these men must be counted Callender, who won his letter on the 1912 team and was kept out last year by injuries. He has taken on considerable weight and may compete in the 135 pound class. Other men who had varsity experience last season are Baird and Horner, 115 pound men, and Kirk and Brown in the 135 pound class.

From the above it appears that only in the 145 pound and 158 pound classes is there an absence of altogether inexperienced varsity material. The other weights may be filled by new men but these two must be filled by new men to the varsity. For Captain Shollenberger's place some of the most promising men at present are Pickett, Hill, Richey, Schlatter, Smith and Chambers, while in the 158 pound class Gleason and Yergger seem to have first call. The freshman class has thus far shown only a few men of promising character for varsity material, but there will probably be a larger number reporting for varsity practice than for class, while several members of other athletic teams in the college have declared their intention of coming out for the team. Due to these uncertainties it is hard to predict what will happen or who will be on the team when the first meet is staged.

Manager Hess is working hard on his schedule and already has several meets tentatively arranged, with negotiations opened with a large number of institutions concerning the arrangements of meets with their representatives in wrestling. He will no doubt have a schedule that will compare favorably with those afforded Penn State teams and their followers of the past. The dates for regular varsity practice will be found in the Collegian calendar, and on the main bulletin boards. Watch for them and come out for the team.

Faculty Rulings

Faculty rulings concerning absences for football trips have been often misinterpreted by students. The rule concerning absences in general is that absences of men attending the Pitt game may be excused by their instructors, the excuse covering the time between 12:10 p. m., Wednesday, November 26, and Sunday night, November 30, and applying only to those limiting their absences to this period of time.

The Council of Administration in answer to petitions from the seniors and juniors voted: "That instructors may excuse absences of the senior and junior classes to go to the Pittsburgh game and attend banquets at that time, from Wednesday, November 26, at 12:10 p. m. to the following Sunday evening, November 30, at 6:00 p. m." It was further voted that this action apply only to students who limit their absence to the days mentioned.

This action frees the two classes from responsibility for work done between these periods, providing those seniors and juniors who do not go to the banquet and game attend their regularly scheduled classes. The senior and junior recitations will be held as usual on Wednesday afternoon and all day Friday.

Interesting Movement.

Petitions are being circulated among faculty, students and residents of State College, and are being extensively signed, asking the court to refuse to grant liquor licenses in Bellefonte on the grounds that the sale of liquor is not necessary. It is interesting to note that in colleges all over the country organizations have been formed and are rapidly growing, which have as their object the study of the liquor problem, and usually, its ultimate overthrow. Over 100 colleges have given classes in the study of the liquor problem in the last three years, with about thirty of them offering college credit. The "Intercollegiate Prohibition Association" is a strong organization. Last year it conducted a series of contests in which 510 students wrote and delivered orations.

Cross Country Intercollegiates

Cornell's runners won the team honors in the sixth annual cross country championship run of the Intercollegiate Association over the six mile course at Travers Island. The winner's time was 34.37, nearly 67 seconds behind that made by Kohlemainen over the same course one week ago.

Penn State finished tenth in team standing with two runners, Leyden and Schroeder, well up among the first men. Their individual times were 36.59 and 37.03 respectively.

Senior Finances

Among the popular members of the senior class must be listed the men who served on the senior dance committee Pennsylvania Day. This important social function not only paid for itself, but netted the class, under whose auspices it was held, almost $430. It is understood that, when all dues are collected, the Junior Prom of last Commencement will yield about $100 above expenses; and the 1914 La Vie about $125.

DEATH OF TRUSTEE.

Jerome T. Ailman, Trustee of Pennsylvania State College and Officer of State Grange, Dies at His Home.

Jerome T. Ailman, trustee of Pennsylvania State College, died at his home at Tompsettown, Juniata County, Pa., on November 19. He was 64 years old.

Mr. Ailman was chosen trustee of this institution by the delegates from the county agricultural societies, June 19, 1911, his term as trustee beginning July 1, 1911, and expiring July 1, 1914.

Being a past State Master and Secretary of the State Grange at the time of his death, Mr. Ailman was a prominent figure in State agricultural activities. He was closely identified with all recent Grange movements and took a very active part in the Grange legislative campaign. Many articles on agricultural subjects have been contributed by him to various agricultural papers and periodicals. He also lectured on county work throughout the state.

As a candidate of the People's party for Governor several years ago and being a member of the House of Representatives from Juniata County in the sessions of 1907 and 1911, Mr. Ailman was closely associated with the recent Political situation of the state. He also figured in a number of party movements and in 1912 was Democratic candidate for Senator in the 31st District.

During his period of trusteeship, Mr. Ailman made several visits to the college and displayed unusual interest in its welfare. May we, therefore, on behalf of the student body extend our sincere sympathy to his family in their bereavement.

The Gymnasium.

The following schedule of events will give some idea of the use of the Armory floor by teams and by individuals. The floor is open all day except when in use by regularly scheduled gym drill classes. Varsity basketball practice is held from 5:10 to 6:00 p. m.; class basketball practice and games on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7:00 to 10:00 p. m. From 9:00 to 10:00 p. m. on Tuesday and Thursday, floor and stage are given to two two year men. Varsity wrestling matches will be held on Saturday nights. Tuesday and Thursday night are open to all from 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock.

The physical director will take special pains to encourage and develop basketball playing. Students in general should take advantage of the gymnasium during vacant hours.

Gym Drill.

Regular winter gymnasium drill will begin on Monday, December 1. Schedules of sections are posted on armory, engineering, main and agricultural bulletin boards. All students taking drill should report on Monday and Tuesday, without uniform, with a copy of their schedules. Men with deficiencies or conflicts should report on Wednesday morning between 8:30 and 12:00 o'clock.

The regulation white gym suits plainly marked with name for identification purposes, is to be worn.
