

GENERAL BEAVER PASSES AWAY

The Well Beloved Friend of Penn State, After Many Years of Faithful Service, Dies at His Home in Bellefonte.

At 2:30 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, January 31, General James Addams Beaver, president of the Board of Trustees of this institution and former Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, died at his home in Bellefonte, Pa., as an indirect result of a bullet wound of the leg received in the Civil War.

The late General Beaver was born on October 21, 1837, at Millersburg, Perry County, Pa. He was of Pennsylvania-German ancestry, sturdy pioneers who resided in Pennsylvania almost from the time of William Penn. His early education was received in the common schools of his native county, after which he entered Jefferson College (now W. and J.) and graduated from that institution with honors in 1856 at the age of 18 years. He immediately removed to Bellefonte where he resided until his death.

After taking up his residence in Bellefonte, he commenced the study of law and was admitted to the bar in 1859. The unsettled condition of the country resulted in his enlistment as Lieutenant in the Bellefonte Fencibles and the outbreak of the Civil War found him at the head of this organization. His war career was a most notable one. He was wounded at Chancellorsville; appointed Brigadier General at Cold Harbor; again wounded at Petersburg and sent north; again wounded at Ream's Station, which necessitated the amputation of his right leg and forced his retirement from active service.

In the field of politics, General Beaver was for a time a conspicuous figure. In 1880 he went as chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican National Convention in Chicago and was slated for the Vice-Presidential nomination. He declined to be a candidate for election to the Senate but was defeated. As a gubernatorial candidate in 1882 we find him again to the fore. He was defeated, but four years later he was renominated and was elected by an overwhelming majority. With the creation of the Superior Court, General Beaver was, in November, 1895, elected to a full term of ten years, at the expiration of which he was re-elected and was on the bench to the time of his death.

General Beaver's relations with the Pennsylvania State College date from 1873 when he became a Trustee. It was due to his influence as Governor of this Commonwealth that we received our first regular appropriation, which increased under his administration. The Mining School stands as a monument to his untiring efforts since it was he who was responsible for its founding. In 1897 he assumed the Presidency of the Board of the Board of Trustees, which position he held up to the time of his death. His loyalty to the student body has endeared him to the heart of every State man and the principles for which he stood will always stand forth as ideals worthy of our endeavor. Penn State has indeed lost a true friend.

The Late Gen. James A. Beaver

Memorial Exercises.

Yesterday morning memorial exercises were held in the Auditorium for the late General James A. Beaver. The meeting was in charge of Paul Rhinehardt '14. Reverend Robert Reed and Professor Pattee spoke on the life of General Beaver, and Paul Rhinehardt and F. C. Dose spoke on the relation of General Beaver to the student body. The Ex-governor's favorite hymn "Lead Kindly Light" was sung. The exercises as a whole were very impressive and the loss of one of the most devoted friends of the college was felt very deeply.

"The Honeymoon" is the title of the comedy to be produced for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. and the State College Fire Department on Friday, February 27th, at 8.15 p. m. The play has lots of local color, is rich in humor and full of original situations. The whole play is the story of one afternoon and evening of a honeymoon week, and all the adventures and misadventures of the characters will be delightfully presented to the audience in an atmosphere familiar to all. The cast will be announced later.

WRESTLERS FIRST MEET

Blue and White Matmen Will Meet Navy at Annapolis on Saturday. New Men Showing Up Well—Injuries to Promising Candidates Causes Lack of Material—More Men Urged to Report for Practice.

The Penn State wrestling team for the season of 1914 will receive its initial test on Saturday afternoon when the team representing the United States Naval Academy will be met at Annapolis. Navy is noted for having strong wrestling teams and this season is no exception to the rule, as shown by the fact that the midshipmen defeated Lafayette in their first meet of the season by seven straight falls. The Blue and White team will be minus the services of such stars as Shollenberger, Very and Fulman, but in spite of this fact, will be made up of individuals that will no doubt give a good account of themselves in their attempt to uphold the standard set by teams of the past.

Coach Shollenberger has been working hard during the last two weeks to get the team in shape for the opening of the season and his work is very noticeable to the followers of the sport in the improvement of the men. The trials held during the week have brought out a few facts. In the first place they have shown that there are strong candidates for every position on the team, while on the other hand the trials have shown what proposition we are likely to meet in the selection of a team at any time, due to the fact that four or five of the most promising candidates were eliminated, probably for the rest of the season, by injuries. This has helped to bring about a lack of good second rate material, especially in the 158 and 175 pound classes, respectively. During the last few days Baird in the 115 pound class, Captain Jones in the 125 pound class, Gleason in the 158 pound class, and Klapp in the 175 pound class received injuries that will either keep them out of the game indefinitely or at least lessen their ability to do themselves justice at the present time. The team is especially in need of more candidates for the three upper weights on the team.

At the time of going to press the squad which Manager Hess and Coach Shollenberger will take to Annapolis has not been finally decided. The 115 pound class lay between Baird and Long, but since the injury to Baird, it is likely that he will not be able to compete in the finals. Hill in the 145 pound class and Lamb in the heavy-weight class have won their places, while in the 125, 135, 158 and 175 pound classes, respectively, competition has narrowed down to the following pairs: Jones and Crockett, Kirk and Klingensmith, Yerger and Wakeley, Sayre and Stecker. In each case the odds seem to be slightly in favor of the first named although the saying "you can't always sometimes tell" holds especially true in wrestling, and there is no doubt that every man will have to work hard for his place.

The preliminary trials for the next meet which will be held on the local mats with Lafayette College will be held next Saturday afternoon. Six pounds over weight will be allowed in each class, the men to weigh in any time on that day previous to the meet. All men who have been working at all are urged to enter these trials.

NEW STATE RECORD

Hammitt Lowers Middle Atlantic Record for 60 Yard Hurdles

State was represented in the Indoor Middle Atlantic Championships by four men. They won three first places and one second place. The meet was held in the Duquesne Garden, Pittsburg, on Saturday night.

Hammitt showed his heels to a fast field and was an easy winner in one fifth of a second better time than Thorpe's record. Leyden, in the 1000 yards, ran a distance new to him and finished first in front of two Pitt men. Keyser, captain of the track team won the two mile event handily in 10 minutes and 29 3-5 seconds. A new M. A. A. record was needed to defeat Lamb in the twelve pound shot event, but he took second place easily.

A. T. Meyers' worlds indoor record for 60 yards was broken by Carroll, of Indiana Normal. It is unfortunate that Robinson is out of Mercersburg, for a race between these two men in the Penn State Interscholastics would result no doubt in a new record.

Glanders Prove Fatal

As the result of infection by glanders bacilli while working in the laboratory, A. M. Jansen, instructor in the veterinary college of Ohio State University, died on January 4. Glanders is a disease commonly found among horses and cattle, but very few cases are on record of the disease affecting man. Mr. Jansen, who was connected with the department of bacteriology, was engaged in his regular class-room work when he contracted the disease. His case was first diagnosed by physicians as typhoid fever and not until a blood test had been made was the real nature of the disease known. He lived but a few hours after being infected by the bacilli.

STATE SWAMPS GETTYSBURG

Team Shows Effect of Experience. Visitors Weak in Passing—Game Fast and Interesting to Watch.

Captain Binder's rejuvenated team set a pace last Friday night that completely bewildered the Gettysburg boys. The trip that our men took was well worth the cost in experience gained. The visitors were completely outclassed and the general work of the Blue and White was by far the best seen so far this season. The final score was 47 to 17.

Our men performed well in passing as compared with the exhibition that the visitors showed. The forwards, Park in particular, worked better under the baskets. Jester maintained his reputation gained on the western trip and our guards generally broke Gettysburg's plays before they got started. Lineup:

Penn State	Gettysburg
Binder	f Mehaffy
Park (Gockley)	f Hashinger
Jester (Bishop)	c Campbell (Monk)
Hay (Warr)	g Ikelier
Savery (Metzgar)	g Scheffer

Substitutions: Penn State—Gockley for Park, Bishop for Jester, Warr for Hay, Metzgar for Savery, Williams for Hashinger, Monk for Campbell. Field goals—Jester 7, Binder 6, Park 5, Campbell 4, Savery, Monk, Hashinger, Metzgar. Foul goals—Binder, 7 out of 16; Campbell, 6 out of 13. Referee, Taggart. Timekeeper, Martin.

W. & J. vs Penn State.

The W. & J. quintet proved a harder and faster foe than the Westinghouse on the previous night. The game was more fiercely fought and rougher than the previous one and the frequency of fouls, particularly against our men, was a big factor in the final score. Jester again was in the lead as to scoring, dropping through the basket four of the seven field goals secured. Our forwards were unusually handicapped by the W. & J. system of guarding as is shown by the fact that each got but one goal apiece.

Line up:

Penn State 23	W. & J. 28
Binder	f F. Nuss
Park	f Fisher
Jester	c (Brady) Broden
Hay (Metzgar)	g C. Nuss
Savery	g Brady

Substitution—For Penn State, Metzgar for Hay; for W. & J., Brady for Broden, Braden for Brady. Field goals—Jester, 4; F. Nuss, 3; C. Nuss, Fisher, 2; Braden, Savery, Park, Binder, 1. Foul goals—Binder, 11 out of 18; Brady 12 out of 31. Referee—Doubleday of Washington, Pa. Timekeeper—Dr. Kirchner of W. & J.

Pittsburg vs Penn State.

The final game was characterized by general roughness on the part of both teams. Our men showed the effects of the severe strain of the trip, this being their third game in three consecutive nights. Jester and Binder, the mainstays in the offense, entered the game in poor physical condition; the latter was forced to leave the floor after the first few minutes of play.

The Blue and White, however, proved the best of the two and
