

PENN STATE WINS ANOTHER

Lehigh Matmen Fight Hard But Lose Meet By One Sided Score. Three Falls and Two Decisions for Blue and White.

In the third meet of the season the Penn State Wrestling team continued to prove that their victory over the otherwise unbeaten Navy team was not a flash in the pan by not allowing the Lehigh matmen even one decision. The best the visitors could do was to earn two draws, which gave them four points, the Blue and White getting a total of twenty-seven points.

Notwithstanding the fact that the visitors lost by a big score they put up one of the hardest fights ever seen on the local mats. Four of the seven bouts went the limit of twelve minutes, two for Penn State decisions and two for draws, while no extremely quick falls were recorded in the meet.

In the bantam weight class Shorty Long met in Kirkhuff, one of the best bantam weights among this year's crop of college wrestlers. The bout was the best of the evening and one of the best ever seen on the local mats. Both boys at one time or another scored near falls but at no time did either man remain under for any considerable length of time. At the end of nine minutes no decision could be given. Both scored near falls in the extra three minute period but neither could gain enough advantage to secure the decision.

Crockett and Martin proved another well matched pair, but did not put up as interesting a bout as the bantams because they wrestled from a stand nearly the whole time. In the extra three minutes Crockett assumed the aggressive and forced his man to the mat for a decision.

In the light weight class Kirk again demonstrated his ability by showing strength, aggressiveness, and a knowledge of the game that could not be denied. Wills, for Lehigh, put up a wonderful defense and withstood a great deal of punishment but was finally pinned to the mat.

In the next class Hill and Woelfel were another evenly matched pair and although both fought hard, no decision could be given until the end of the extra three minute period, during which time the local man secured a near fall from a chancery hold just as time was called.

Yerger was very aggressive in the 158 pound class. He brought his man to the mat by a flying tackle and was awarded a fall in the shortest time of the meet.

In the light heavyweight class Stecker did all the leading but could not gain enough advantage to obtain a decision over Bailey, of Lehigh, the bout being called a draw at the end of 12 minutes of wrestling from the standing position. In the heavyweight class Good was considerably lighter than Lamb and was kept on the defensive from the start. The local man took his own time to secure the third fall of the meet. Summary:

115 pound class—Long, Penn State and Kirkhuff, Lehigh, wrestled 12 minutes to a draw.

125 pound class—Crockett, Penn State, won decision over Martin, Lehigh, in 12 minutes.

SENIOR MEMORIAL

Pipe Organ Soon to be Installed in Auditorium.

The class of 1914, following the custom of preceding graduating classes, has decided to leave a class memorial of some kind at the college. Finding a swimming pool impossible because of the cost, the class voted to install an organ in the Auditorium. A contract was signed last week with the Austin Company for a two manual instrument to be operated by electro-pneumatic action. The power will be supplied by motor to be placed in the basement of the building.

The instrument will occupy a position on the rear wall, taking a space 23 feet wide, and extending from the ceiling down to nine feet above the stage. The console or key-board has a cable attachment, which makes it possible to have the organ played from the middle or side of the stage, or from the orchestra in front of the stage. The pipes will be arranged on the wall in a decorative style, with the casing of oak to match the interior finish of the building.

The rear wall of the Auditorium will act as a sounding-board and will give a full volume of tone to the organ. The opening of the proscenium arch of the stage offers a full sweep for the volume of tone throughout the house. The contract calls for the instrument to be ready by June 1st and it is planned to have a dedicatory concert in connection with the Commencement proceedings. The class of 1914 has rendered a great service to the college by leaving behind this most useful as well as ornamental memorial.

SECOND W. & J. GAME

Wash-Jeff Has Defeated the Penn State Five Once—Help the Blue and White Turn the Tables Saturday Night.

A critical point in Penn State basketball history will be reached Friday night, at seven o'clock when Captain Binders' varsity meets the Washington and Jefferson five in the second and last local league game. The game, if won, will definitely assure Penn State's hopes for its championship of the western division, as her representatives have defeated Pittsburgh twice, and have lost only one game. W. & J. earlier in the season, defeated the Blue and White at Washington, but in turn lost to Pitt. From this standing of the teams, it is evident that Friday's game will be no easy one, but the Penn State five are in the best of trim and will be sure to put up their best game.

Every Penn State man should be in the armory next Friday night at seven o'clock. In the first place the Penn State varsity needs the presence of loyal supporters to help it win the western division championship and insure it a chance to compete with the eastern and central winners for the state championship. In the second place, basketball is absolutely self supporting; if the Blue and White should win on Friday, the team will have to play one game, perhaps two games on a neutral floor for the final championship. This expense, as well as that of the W. & J. game, must be met. As up to the present time home games have been rather poorly attended, and as gate receipts have been correspondingly low, the necessity of a crowded armory for the final contest is obvious.

Frankly speaking, the outlook for the team is promising. Either Lehigh or Swarthmore will win the eastern championship, and Albright has already secured the honors in the central division. Penn State has defeated Swarthmore, and was barely beaten by Lehigh at the end of a hard trip, but has not measured strength with Albright. In a championship series the team should hold its own.

Tickets for the game will be on sale at the Toggery Shop, beginning Wednesday noon. Adequate seating facilities will be provided in the armory.

1915 La Vie.

The 1915 La Vie will consist of a book similar in size to that of last year. The cover will be of black morocco with a gilt panel on the left hand corner. Due to the growth of the college and increase in the number of college activities the size of the volume will be somewhat increased over that of previous years. Color plates and increased recognition of certain departments are some of the features planned.

Thespian Trip Changes.

It is very probable that, due to cancellation of engagements in Johnstown and Altoona, the Thespians will not stage their production in these cities. If no final agreement can be made, the dates will be definitely cancelled, and the organization will substitute some other towns in western Pennsylvania.

MASS MEETING

Important Matters Taken Up and Discussed.

At the mass meeting held in the Old Chapel Thursday, February 26, several matters which have been hanging over for the last month were brought up and discussed. No definite action could be taken since according to the constitution, amendments must be voted upon at least a week after they are proposed.

The matter of awarding the varsity "S" to wrestlers was discussed and a motion was made to amend the constitution whereby any man winning all his bouts in the regular scheduled meets, providing that there are at least four such meets a season, be awarded the varsity "S". The stipulation whereby the man is required to win all his bouts is made in order to compensate for the fact that we do not wrestle in the intercollegiate. This amendment will be voted upon at the regular Wednesday morning mass meeting on March 11.

As considerable discussion has arisen from time to time concerning just what the constitution says and what matters are governed by it, it was suggested to revise and print it in booklet form for distribution among the student body. A committee was appointed to make such revisions and have it printed and distributed.

A paper written by the graduate manager was read and discussed and a committee appointed to investigate and arrange the recommendations set forth. Briefly they consisted of abolishing the present office of treasurer which it was shown, is not only unnecessary but, the way the system now works, proves to be unsatisfactory both financially and otherwise. It also suggested a new method whereby assistant managers for varsity teams might be selected. As it is at the present time there is a lack of the number of assistant managers and it was suggested that the sophomores be allowed to compete for positions as assistant managers, three of whom are selected at the end of their sophomore year and from these three the manager is selected while the other two form the senior returns committee who also take the trips with the team.

A committee was also chosen to look into the matter of awarding the varsity "S" to members of the track team. At the present time a man either breaking a State record or scoring ten points during the year in regular scheduled meets is awarded his letter and it was suggested that this was somewhat easy and should be raised from ten points to that of thirteen. It was also suggested to allow some insignia to be worn only on the field by men participating in regularly scheduled meets who had not yet won their letter.

It seems at the present time that no insignia is awarded to members of the lacrosse, soccer and cross country teams and a committee was appointed to look into the matter and make a report at the next mass meeting.

The self-government system of this college has attracted widespread attention among students of other colleges. The latest request for full information comes from the University of Illinois.

PITTSBURGH WAS FAST

Avalanche of Goals Clinched Game Early. Pitt Came Back In Second Half.

State served up the Pitt game Friday night so quickly and completely that the Smoky City team was paralyzed during the first period. On this occasion our team treated the bleachers to the best article of basketball seen here for some time. Neither team was counting on an easy victory as the previous game between the two institutions was hard fought and close contested throughout.

State got away with an early start and the ball found its way through our basket ten times before the period ended. The guarding by our men was equally remarkable. Not a single field goal was scored by Pitt during this time.

In the final half Pitt employed different tactics and showed decided improvement. The game ended with the score 26 to 17 in our favor. 14 of the 17 points Pitt secured during this session.

The Honeymoon.

The Honeymoon, a performance given by the combined efforts of the Y. M. C. A. and the town Firemen's Association, proved to be the best dramatic performance staged in State College for the past four years. The play was dramatized by Dr. Sparks, and in several instances humorous allusions were made to State College and its environments. The play was exceedingly well staged, and the production, under the efficient management of Mr. Deering, was admirably acted.

The play is supposed to represent the honeymoon of a newly married couple at State College, who have unfortunately been subjected to the visit of several interested relatives and friends. Some very amusing incidents occur, and finally the numerous guests depart and leave the two young people to themselves.

The Auditorium was crowded and on account of the excellence of the performance, it is to be hoped that it will be produced again in June.

Hon. Clifford G. Roe.

Hon. Clifford G. Roe, of Chicago, made a great impression upon his audiences last Sunday, both at chapel and at the evening Y. M. C. A. meeting. Mr. Roe is one of the foremost in the great anti-vice campaign which is being carried on in this country, and which already is making great progress. This was Mr. Roe's second visit to the college, and he was all the more welcome on that account.
