

INNOCENTS MAKE HIT

dissatisfied in love and with this bitter sting and contempt of all womankind still in his mind he was rearing his sons without any possible contact with the members of the fairer sex. In charge of the boys he placed a botany professor, an auburn comical gentleman, who proceeded to teach them the knowledge necessary to further their education. In the absence of the colonel a gaiety troupe, who were stranded nearby, visit the estate and upon their arrival many comical complications ensued.

The play throughout was humorous and well balanced. L. Cort, as colonel, was well fitted for his post. Raynor, as Professor Simian, was without a peer. His expression, natural action and appearance places him among the best comedians that the Thespians have ever had. Bob and Jack, in love with Caroline and Fifi, carried themselves well throughout as did Thatcher representing the daring aviator.

Considering the difficulty of the last month the dancing was fairly good. The members of the chorus made up well and the girls were indeed attractive. As debutantes, Munhall, Ashbrooke, Kressly and Engle starred, while Liebensberger, Jameson, Rishell and Moyer portrayed the broilers in the usual high class manner. The men consisted of Wilson, Fleming, Gold and Freeman as guards and Albert, Cox, Dawson and Gauthier as sons of the colonel.

The orchestra was again under the able direction of John Stanley Crandell as conductor and the popular hits of the day used in the show were rendered remarkably well.

The Easter trip opens at Uniontown on Monday, April 13, and continues at Greensburg, Connellsville, Clearfield, Tyrone and Bellefonte on succeeding nights. Harry G. Shupe, as manager, and Clyde S. Van Reed, as advertising manager have had considerable trouble in keeping the schedule intact and as the production goes into entirely new territory this year great things are expected of them.

School of Mines Banquet

The annual banquet of the Mining Engineering Society was held at Nittany Inn on Saturday Evening, March 28. About 65 were present and spent a very enjoyable evening.

Mr. George J. Salmon, 1914, president of the society, was toastmaster. The toasts were responded to in the following order:

Aspects of the School of Mines, Dr. Edwin E. Sparks; Readings, selected, Mr. Reid Austin; A Little Vaudeville, Dr. Walter R. Crane; Teaching Foreigners English, Dr. Peter Roberts; Evolution, Dr. Elwood S. Moore.

Dr. Sparks spoke of the need of a more liberal education in the engineering courses. Mr. Austin gave several very good selections. Dr. Crane favored those present with some very lively lantern vaudeville.

The guest of honor, Dr. Peter Soberts, Secretary of the advisory committee on Immigration of the Industrial Department of the Y. M. C. A., and originator of the Roberts System for teaching foreigners English, gave a very interesting talk on his work.

Dr. Moore's lantern talk on Evolution was very enlightening, and he was followed by Mr. E. W. Smith, who brought down the house with his tale of the Palaeozoic Girl and his song of the School of Metallurgy.

A GOOD EASTER SMOKE

is assured if you try the Las Amantas cigars. Quality is apparent with every puff you take. Enjoyment is certain down to the very last draw. Better have a supply for yourself and friends. You can afford to be generous for the Las Amantas cigars cost only five cents each.

GRAHAM ON THE CORNER

Engineering Societies Meet

The engineering societies held a joint meeting on March 26 which found members from the Civil, Electrical, Mechanical and Industrial Engineering societies in attendance. The speakers of the evening were Dean Holmes, Dean Walker, Professor Diemer, J. W. Carpenter '14, and H. L. Hughes '14. Several pleasing musical selections were heard from Leyden '14 and Gillespie '16. A feed and smoker followed the meeting, at which souvenirs in the form of cigarette cases were distributed. These were the gift of the Liggitt and Myers Tobacco Company and were obtained through the courtesy of "Graham on the corner". The success of the meeting has assured its being repeated in the near future.

Engineering Notes

Last week Mr. Howard Rhode gave an illustrated lecture on the manufacture of Lehigh Portland cement. Mr. Wood donated the use of his building which was nearly filled with engineering students who were excused from classes during the lecture.

Later, the same day, the speaker addressed a large audience in the engineering building on the construction of concrete roads.

Both meetings were instructive and thoroughly enjoyed by the engineers.

A mass meeting will be held in the Auditorium at 6:30 Thursday evening April 2nd, under the auspices of the Civic Club. The Club has secured the Hon. Vance C. McCormick, Harrisburg; Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, Hon. William H. Berry, and Hon. William T. Creasy, to address the students. Invitations have also been extended to all other candidates for the senatorship and governorship to visit the college during the coming campaign.

A new honor system has been adopted at Wisconsin in which the students merely sign papers at the close of the year stating that they never gave nor received aid during exams.

The Division of Engineering Extension has started a class at Lebanon. This class is for the benefit of the employees of the iron works in that town.
