

Agricultural Society Meeting.

The first meeting of the Agricultural Society for the present college year was held Monday evening in the auditorium of the Horticultural Building. The society was called to order by President Longenecker. Next in order was the reading of the minutes of the last meeting of the society last May. After these minutes were approved, the report of the treasurer was read, and also accepted as read. After a number of discussions the president was authorized to appoint a committee to revise the constitution. The revised edition will then be presented to the society for approval, after which it will be printed in booklet form. This will enable the members to see at a glance the various rules and regulations of the society, which should help make the work of the society more efficient.

Owing to the absence from college of Merchant, who had been elected as assistant manager of the Agricultural Fair on Pennsylvania Day, nominations were made for a new man to be elected to fill the position of assistant manager. The following men were nominated, one of which will be elected at the next meeting of the society: Gonder, Garber, and Lowry.

The editor of the Penn State Farmer, Paul Baker, spoke to the members of the society and urged the need of their support, as well as the support of all men in the agricultural school. The Penn State Farmer is a credit to the students in the Agricultural department of the college and certainly should have the support of every person enrolled in a course of agriculture.

The president appointed a committee with R. M. Decker as chairman, to arrange for a reception to all new men taking the course in agriculture. Heretofore, these receptions have meant much to the society, in addition to the benefit received by the new men, which is really the primary object of the reception.

A score or more of men were proposed as members of the organization. After the election of these persons upon the payment of the dues required the meeting was adjourned.

Political Candidates Visit College

On Thursday evening the college was honored by a visit from two of the candidates on the state Republican ticket, Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh and Frank McClain. The trip was taken as a part of the campaign tour now in progress and a large crowd was assembled in front of the Co-op eager to greet the distinguished visitors. Dr. Brumbaugh has long been prominently identified with the public schools of Pennsylvania and has been a consistent worker for betterment in our educational system.

of candies is sure to be commended if he makes it a box of our chocolates and bon bons. No one can resist their tempting appearance, no one can fail to be delighted with their exquisite flavor. A box of our candies is certainly a key that will unlock any feminine heart.

GRAHAM ON THE CORNER

In a short address he gave some very sound advice to the young men assembled and he assured them that he could appreciate their labors and their problems. The students were told that they were the survivors of a long and honorable competition. As the victors in this long struggle and as the recipients of the generosity of the people in providing for their education, they owed a duty of service to the commonwealth. Dr. Brumbaugh brought out the fact that the present efficiency of the school system in Pennsylvania had been brought about by the Republican party, and he closed his speech with a plea for the support of the Republican candidates in the November elections.

Mr. McClain was introduced as the man who had fathered and earnestly supported the appropriation bill for New Beaver field. As the time of the party was limited Mr. McClain was able only to thank the students for the enthusiastic reception tendered them. The party then left for Bellefonte from which point they continued their tour of the state.
