Have You Ever Noticed that in any game where a ball is used in a competitive way, that the official ball always bears this trade-mark, whether it be football, basket ball, indoor baseball, lacrosse, baseball or any other athletic game?

There must be a reason for this universal adoption by the leading organizations connected with sports, and there is a reason—no one can make them as good.

The same argument applies to all things athletic.

FARMERS' WIVES LEARN TO CUT HIGH LIVING COSTS

Mr Neil D. Cranmer, of Syracuse, the eastern secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, visited Penn State over Sunday. He spoke to a special meeting of the league at 1:30 Saturday. In reviewing the work of other Pennsylvania colleges it appears that Penn State is somewhat behind smaller colleges like Dickinson and Gettysburg, where there are only one-fifth as many students. While here Mr. Cranmer added at least 20 new members to the roll of 40 of the local league.

On Sunday at three o'clock a fairly large audience heard the talk on two important topics, "The Legal Phase of the Liquor Problem" and "Does Prohibition Prohibit?" Decisions of state and national supreme courts show the sale of intoxicating liquor to be unconstitutional. Therefore, to overthrow this "Legalized Outlaw" all that is needed is that the government break its partnership with it.

Does prohibition prohibit? A few arguments are as follows: If liquor men (in a dry state) say it does not prohibit they confess that they are law breakers. In one month's travel in Maine Mr. Cranmer saw only two drunken men in all the cities and they were apparently old timers, not young men. If prohibition does not prohibit, why do liquor men oppose it so strenuously?

The saloon is the poor man's club only in one sense. It is used to beat his wife and knock the bread from his children's hands. In a representative case it was found that 50 out of 65 drinking men go to the saloon for drink rather than social life.

Finally, Mr. Cranmer set forth the aims and activities of the I. P. A. as a whole, and at Penn State in particular. The departments of the work include a study class every two weeks; lectures by college instructors giving the relation of liquor to different lines of work; the home, state and national oratorical contests; and as exercise, deputation work supplemented by students' articles published in county newspapers. The fact that the league has no connection whatever with the Prohibition party was strongly emphasized. The work of this organization will bear investigation. This question, the greatest in the world today, must be faced by every student.

"Von Edelsheim, a member of the German general staff," said Lieutenant Chaffin, "has published an interesting account of the methods by which Germany could impose her will on the United States. She could land a force, he declares, that would overwhelm our feeble army, and brush aside our recruits. She could isolate one or more of our great centers, tear up the railroads, hold the cities to ransom, destroy our public or quasi-public buildings, and all other structures that might be advantage to a defending army. There would be no thought of permanent conquest but Von Edelsheim is serenely confident that a German army could wreak such havoc in a very short time that this country would be glad to quit."

The following conversation was overheard as the people were leaving the Auditorium after the concert last Sunday night.

First town boy, "Why does everybody stand up when the band plays The Star Spangled Banner?"

Second town boy, "I guess to give the people a chance to put on their wraps."

J. B. Minford, '14, is now in charge of a lumber camp at Tellico Plains, Tenn.
