IN THE COLLEGE WORLD.

The students of Franklin and Marshall College have adopted the honor system by an overwhelming vote

Thirty thousand persons attended the Army-Navy game this year. An incident which enlivened the game from the standpoint of the spectator was the divesting of the coat from the Middies' "goat" by the Cadets, an occurrence which cost the Navy pangs of regret only exceeded by those of defeat.

The University of Pennsylvania has passed a resolution whereby a college degree will be required for entrance into the law school of that university. This action makes the standard of admission as high as that of any law school in the world.

One out of every two students at the University of Chicago earns his own way through college.

A stringent measure against high school sororities was adopted at the recent meeting of the National Pan-Hellenic Association of American College Sororities, at Washington, in accordance with which girls who belong to high school sororities must resign their membership if they desire to be eligible to membership in college sororities.

Statistics show that twelve football players have been killed this fall. Only two of the victims were college men. Neither of the two college men were injured in an intercollegiate game. None of the twelve were more than twenty years of age, and the accidents occurred while the victims were making a tackle in a majority of the cases. In 1910, twenty-two men were killed; in 1911, eleven men; in 1912, thirteen men; in 1913, fourteen men.

The weekly paper of Heidelberg University has a unique method of calling for subscription dues. In an article, entitled "Ye Afflicted Ones," the manager wrote the following: "Anyone suffering from a superfluity of cash or any other alled disease, can find instant relief, if not a positive cure, by calling around at the publication sanctum and paying their subscription. Come early and avoid the rush." Ditto, Penn State men.

ALUMNI NOTES.

COLLEGE TEACHES FARMING TO THOUSANDS BY MAIL.

More than 19,000 men and women of Pennsylvania who could not find time or the funds to attend college have studied agriculture by correspondence with the college. About fifty per cent. of them have completed the courses, and were awarded certificates of proficiency.

Professor T. I. Mairs, who has charge of the long-distance instruction, said the courses attracting most attention were: poultry raising, farm book keeping, gardening, fruit growing and general agriculture. He added that the new course in cooking is rapidly gaining in popularity.

"The enrollment of more than 1,500 persons each year in these correspondence courses," said Professor Mairs, "is good evidence that teaching agriculture by mail has become an important phase of the extension work of the American agricultural college."

Last year, according to Professor Mairs, 15,000 papers were examined and returned to the correspondence students. He finds the individuals most interested are young farmers, from twenty to thirty years old, farm women, clerks, business and professional men.

CHAPEL SYSTEM EXPLAINED.

The growth of the college this year and the probable continued growth next year has caused considerable speculation as to just what arrangements for compulsory chapel will be made next year.

An increase in the freshman class to 800 would overcrowd the old chapel. Numerous suggestions have been made, the most sensible of which seems to be the excusing of all seniors. At any rate, no accumulated cuts will be carried over from this year and any sophomore who has accumulated cuts in his freshman year, or any junior who has been equally frugal will lose their advantage unless the cuts are taken this year. For instance, a student who has attended chapel 100 times more than required may absent himself twenty weeks this year, but any cuts left in June will be lost and cannot be used the following year, no matter what system is adopted.

The recent posting of cuts are only of those men, therefore, who have used up all accumulated absences from previous years.

TWO-YEAR STUDENTS IN BASKET-BALL.

All two-year men who have any basket-ball ability should report in the armory on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, from 8:30 until 10 o'clock.

The team will be coached by Bowes, '16, Professor Crooks and Manager Deputy. Games will be arranged with the class teams and cultural colleges. In his opinion, it reaches people who cannot leave the farm or the place of business, possibly with some teams away. Already some good material has been found among the sixty candidates who have reported.

Two teams will be picked from each class and a final squad of fifteen selected. Those retained on the squad will be excused from gym drill.
